MAY LIFT AUTO BAN TO FIGHT GRIP

Governor McCall appealed to the national fuel administration today, through State Fuel Administrator James J. Storrow, to lift the ban on Sunday automobiling in order to allow thousands to get out into the fresh air and sunshine and thus check the spread of Spanish influenza, which is reported on the increase in various sections of the State. The suggestion that this be done was made by the Boston AMERICAN to Mr. Storrow.

The Governor declared in his communication sent to Mr. Storrow, to be forwarded by him to Washington, that the aid that this would give in fighting the disease would more than offset the benefits to be gained by the saving of gasoline.

Other developments in the fight on influenza were:

1—Physical examinations of all draft registrants and all meetings of draft registrants with legal advisory boards ordered stopped by General Crowder until further notice.

2—Industrial cities throughout the state report increase in influenza and pneumonia cases.

3—Public Health Service at Washington orders the most

REV. PETER C. QUINN DIES OF PNEUMONIA

The Rev. Peter C. Quinn, pastor of St. Paul's Church, Woodward Park street, Roxbury, died today at the rectory of double pneumonia. He had not been ill long, and his death comes as a shock to his friends and parishioners. Father Quinn succeeded Bishop Joseph G. Anderson in the pastorate of St. Paul's when the latter took over the pastorate of St. Peter's nearly two years ago. Father Quinn had previously been pastor of Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Jamaica Plain, and of Our Lady of Grace Church, Chelsea. He was born in Boston.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson Praises Dr. Leary's New Grip Serum

By WOODS HUTCHINSON, M. D., A. M.

Heavily as the war has cut down our imports and our flow of immigration from Europe, there is one commodity whose importation it has not prevented, one immigrant whom we could have well spared, the influenza germ.

It is some small consolation to our souls, some salve to our self-respect, that we are not responsible for the origin of this pest, that it was not bred in the soil of our own carelessness or dirtiness, but is an imported product, foisted upon us, from across the Atlantic.

For another mental relief it has probably nothing whatever to do with the war, as it seems to have originated clear back of all the battle lines—if there could be such a place in the BULLETINS!

Paris, Oct. 3.—The inhabitants of twenty villages in Alsace have been removed to Bavaria by the Germans in anticipation of a big Franco-American offensive on that front, according to advices reaching here from Swiss sources. The towns evacuated by civilians include Ferrette, Goutavon and Winkel. Steps are being taken to prevent a threatened uprising in both Alsace and Lorraine. There is a great scarcity of food in both provinces.

London, Oct. 3.—Australian troops operating with General Allenby's Palestine army, advanced seventeen miles northeast of Damascus on Wednesday, capturing 1,500 Turkish prisoners, two guns and forty machine guns, it was officially announced today.

London, Oct. 3.—The Germans are trying to organize a new defence line along the Danube. The Rumanian bank of the river has been fortified. The Germans are retreating toward this line.

London, Oct. 3.—Five thousand five hundred and eighteen German officers and 248,494 men were captured by the allies on the Western front from July 15 to the end of September, it was officially announced here today. The booty taken in the same period on the Western front included 3,669 German guns and more than 23,000 machine guns.

London, Oct. 3.—General Plumer's British forces have gained two miles at some points in their new advance on the twenty-mile front between Lens and Armentieres. The German retirement continues. Roulers has been virtually surrounded.

London Hears Turkey Has Quit

GERMANY APPEALS TO SULTAN

London, Oct. 3 (1:30 p. m.)—There was a strong report current on the stock market this afternoon that Turkey had surrendered unconditionally to the allies. At the foreign office it was stated that there was no confirmation of the rumor.

London, Oct. 3.—Turkey has notified Germany of her intention to make peace, according to a Zurich dispatch to the Daily News today. Germany's reply, which was described as "long, menacing and pleading," promised Turkey that Bulgarian soil would be occupied.

Ever since Bulgaria collapsed the reports that Turkey would drop out have become stronger and more circumstantial. Turkey is in a critical state and has been for some time.

U. S. SHIP SUNK; 118 PERISH

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Ten officers and 10 enlisted men, in addition to one British officer and five civilian employes, were lost when the U. S. S. Tampa, formerly a coast guard cutter, was torpedoed in the Bristol Channel, England, on the night of September 26, the Navy Department announced today.

Reports to the department fail to state that a submarine was sighted, but said that all the evidence indicated that the vessel was the victim of a submarine.

She was escorting a convoy, and for some reason had run ahead of the other vessels. At 8:45 an explosion was heard, and a search by the other vessels revealed wreckage from the Tampa, with one of her lifeboats. The bodies of two men in naval uniforms but unidentified were found floating on the wreckage.

The Tampa was commanded by Captain C. Satterlee of the Coast Guard.

The Navy Department has called for additional details.

NEW ENGLAND'S PACE ON LOAN TOO SLOW

"Wake up, New England, was the message today from the New England Liberty Loan headquarters upon receipt of the total of $23,402,000 subscribed during the fourth day of the campaign.

Reports for the fourth day of the "Fighting Fourth" Liberty Loan showed that New England was not hitting the necessary stride of $25,000,000 a day needed to put the loan through to success within the allotted space of eighteen days.

New England's grand total as reported by the Federal Reserve Bank at 4 p. m. is $121,094,000, or approximately 24 per cent. of the New England allotment of $500,000,000.

Reports from Washington today showed that the nation as a whole was running behind schedule in its effort to raise the huge total of $6,000,000,000 which is asked for before October 19.

Nearly more than half a billion dollars has thus far been pledged throughout the nation notwithstanding the fact that four days of the eighteen are already exhausted. The

BELGIANS AND BRITISH CAPTURE MORE VILLAGES

London, Oct. 3.—Two more villages and a fortified farm have been captured from the Germans by the Anglo-Belgian army on the Flanders front the Belgian war office at Havre announced today. Dixmude, seven and one half miles north of Furnes, Le Hizet, just north of Armentieres, and La Planque farm were taken. In local fighting the Allied positions were improved. Nine German airplanes and two balloons have been shot down by Allied airmen.

ENTIRE FRONT IS CRUMBLING

Amsterdam, Oct. 3.—German newspapers are beginning to reflect great anxiety over the situation on the Western front. The Frankfort Zeitung today admits that the situation west of the Meuse, where the Americans are fighting, is becoming "extremely critical." It adds: "We have had to give up part of Chemin des Dames and the whole German front is gradually crumbling away under the allied attack." Advices from other sources show that the evacuation of Belgium is being openly discussed.

By FRANK CHARLTON,
International News Service Cable Editor.

The Germans have begun another great retreat on the western battle front, and there were indications today that it would develop into one of the biggest of the war.

All of the great chain of defensive works erected by the Germans in Flanders between the Belgian frontier and Lens are being evacuated. As the Germans fall back over this twenty-mile front they are hotly pursued by the British.

In Belgium the German lines are rapidly giving way, and already the allies have penetrated twenty-five miles into Belgian soil and are menacing both German submarine bases on the Belgian coast, Zeebrugge and Ostend. Since last Friday the Anglo-Belgian army has gained nearly fifteen miles.

TURKEY NOTIFIES THE KAISER OF HER INTENTION TO MAKE PEACE

GERMANY IMPLORES SULTAN TO FIGHT; PROMISES AID

And is advancing northwards against Aleppo, the Turks' chief base of operations. Another British army in Mesopotamia has advanced beyond Baghdad. With Bulgaria out of the conflict the way has been opened for a drive direct upon Constantinople and the Orient railway, the only direct line of communication between Turkey and the central empires.

Turkey has been in the war since its beginning, having entered into a secret treaty of alliance with Germany on August 4, 1914. At the outbreak of the war the German cruisers Breslau and Goeben were caught in the Mediterranean Sea, but took refuge in the Dardanelles under the protection of the Turkish forts. Instead of interning these ships, in accordance with international law, the Turks proceeded to buy them and give them Turkish names. By order of the German admiralty the two cruisers passed into the Black Sea, where they bombarded Russian ports without any provocation whatsoever.

On November 5, 1914, England declared war against Turkey and at once began preparations for an active campaign at the Dardanelles.

A mixed French and British army was sent to the Dardanelles and on February 25, 1915, a mixed fleet of British and French warships began bombarding the Turkish forts to open the way for land operations.

A British army was landed on the Gallipoli peninsula, but the enterprise turned out unsuccessfully, and in December, 1915, the troops were withdrawn.

In the meanwhile a British army was landed from the Gulf of Persia and began an advance in Mesopotamia which eventually gave it possession of Bagdad. Later operations were begun in Palestine under General Allenby, and they have met with brilliant success.

Turkey had long been under German influence. Enver Pasha, commander of the Turkish army, being virulently pro-German. He was completely under control of Field Marshal von Der Goltz, who was sent to Turkey by the Kaiser to "supervise Turkish operations."

Even before the collapse of Bulgaria Turkey was weary of war and was ready to quit. In spite of frequent reports of bread and peace riots at Constantinople these increased as the British military successes on Turkish soil constantly multiplied.

Germany had promised Egypt to Turkey in the event of victory, and two unsuccessful efforts were made by the Turks and Germans to reach the Suez Canal. When Bulgaria broke down Germany turned the Turks' attention to the East, promising the Ottoman Empire a slice of the oil producing territory in the Caucasus.

Kaiser Unable to Hold Turkey in War, Belief of Officials at Capital

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Germany will be unable to hold Turkey in line, Official quarters were convinced of this fact today when word reached the Capitol that the Kaiser's government had protested against the Sultan suing for peace.

Germany no longer has any influence in Turkey, officials say. They point out that the crushing defeat of the Turks in Palestine has left the Ottoman government with only the army which now is in Constantinople and a smaller force near Constantinople with which to carry on the war.

For several weeks the Turks, like Bulgaria, had been importuning Germany and Austria to send additional troops to aid in maintaining the war. But neither nation was able to spare any until after Bulgaria had quit the war. And even now there is much mystery concerning the army which is reported to have been taken by Field Marshal von Mackensen to Sofia.

GERMAN "INVENTION."

The largest number suggested so far is only 150,000, and with the Balkans entirely out of the war, this force is far inferior to that which General Franchet d'Esperey has at his disposal, it exceeding 600,000 men, not counting the Franco-Italian army in Albania.

The report that there are 250,000 German troops at Sofia which could be sent to the aid of the Sultan is characterized by the military observers here who know as simply a German invention. It is pointed out that if such a force had been there a week ago it would have prevented Bulgaria suing for peace. And it would be a physical impossibility for Mackensen or any other living man to have moved such a force more than over the warnout, single tracked railway of the Belgrade-Constantinople line.

Officials have been convinced that Turkey was no longer to be reckoned with as a factor in the war. Whether the eliminates herself by choice, as now seems very probable, or is eliminated by force is the only question at issue in diplomatic and military channels.

RAISED RELIGIOUS ISSUE.

Talaat Pasha took the lead in an effort to line up the Sultan's government for peace the moment he heard that Bulgaria was about to quit. He would have carried his point immediately were it not that the Young Turks had been promised by Germany that they would be afforded every assistance in combating, and also that the German high command would keep the railway to Belgrade open, no matter what Bulgaria did.

The Young Turk leaders, knowing full well that the Entente realized that it was due to their efforts that Turkey went into the war on the side of the central empires, and that they would be held responsible therefore, raised the religious issue against Talaat Pasha. They declared that the allies would never forgive the Armenian massacres, and alleged that submission to them at this time would mean that they would be forced to abandon "true faith."

According to the information reaching diplomatic quarters here today this was the reason why the council of war held in Constantinople last Friday failed to follow Bulgaria's lead. It now is assumed that the lies of the Young Turks have been fully contradicted by Talaat Pasha.

EVACUATION OF BELGIUM IS UNDERWAY

Washington, Oct. 3.—Germany has begun the evacuation of Belgium. Official information showing the preparatory moves already under way has been received by the State Department and is made public by Secretary of State Lansing today.

The retirement, it is believed, shortly may include the German forces now in Northern France. So desperate is Germany's plight at the present time that officials here would not be surprised to see a general retreat to the Rhine, coupled with another peace plea from the new ministry which is expected to be responsible to the Reichstag.

The information to the State Department is to the effect that all rolling stock, hospitals, postoffices, houses and supplies have been transferred from the Fourth Army District in Belgium to the general government.

In addition, all civilian authorities have been recalled to Germany and regulations pertaining to the maintenance of order have been made more severe—an indication, officials assume, that measures have been taken to safeguard the ports basins at Antwerp the naval staff, commanded by Grossadmiral Scheer, to leave.

RUMANIA TO COME BACK.

Should Turkey be eliminated from the war, Rumania will come back on the side of the allies in the very near future.

Heavy Bombardment on the American Front Northwest of Verdun

By HENRY G. WALES.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army northwest of Verdun, Oct. 3.—A heavy bombardment developed on the American front this morning. The weather was excellent for observation purposes and range finding. It was clear, crisp and sunshiny.

The clearing weather recalled in increased air activity. A cool brisk breeze is blowing and is drying up the mud. With improved roads troop movements and transport will be made much easier.

American Diplomat Charged With Pro-Germanism

Washington, Oct. 3.—The State Department has begun an investigation of charges of pro-Germanism against an American diplomatic official and several consular agents in a Central American Republic.

Secretary Lansing refused to discuss the matter in any way, save to admit an inquiry was in progress. The charges first were called to the attention of a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who suggested to the informant that the State Department be notified.

The charges are of an extremely grave nature, connecting the officials, it is alleged, not only with pro-German propaganda, but accusing them of openly assisting agents of the enemy.

GERMANS FALL BACK BEFORE BRITISH

Begin New Retreat Between Lens and Armentieres Over a Front of 20 Miles

By International News Service.

London, Oct. 3 (10:45 a. m.)—The Germans have begun a new retreat and are now evacuating all of their main defensive works between Lens and Armentieres, the War Office reported today.

This retirement, which was first reported by Field Marshal Haig on Wednesday night, extends over a front of twenty miles.

British troops are hotly pursuing the Germans.

The British advance continues, the official statement said.

The new line extends from Cite St. Auguste, near Lens, to Bauvin, east of La Bassee, east of Aubers and west of Bois Grenier. This line is almost straight, running north and south from Lens to Armentieres, on the Franco-Belgian frontier.

British forces resumed their attacks north of St. Quentin this morning. A German attack north of Cambrai was broken down. More German prisoners have been taken.

The text of the official report reads:

"The enemy is evacuating highly organized positions between Lens and Armentieres.

"We have reached the line of Cite St. Auguste, Douvrin, east of La Bassee, east of Aubers and west of Bois Grenier.

"Our advance continues.

"We are maintaining constant touch with the enemy and are taking prisoners.

"The enemy attacked during the evening north of Cambrai, but was repulsed.

"We renewed our attacks north of St. Quentin this morning."

French Renew Their Attacks on the German Positions in Champagne

By International News Service.

Paris, Oct. 3 (noon).—With the British pounding the Germans in the St. Quentin sector, the French renewed their assault of of the German positions in Champagne today, the War Office announced.

The French now hold the important railroad town of Challerange on the eastern edge of the Champagne district.

Powerful German counter-attacks were delivered north of Rheims and in Champagne, but all broke down.

The French have taken Letrey, six miles north of Rheims, extending their lines toward the Aisne.

The text of the communique follows:

"We have continued our advance on the Vesle front and have taken Lutry.

"The Germans made a powerful counter-attack in the sector of La-Neuvillette, but were repulsed.

"Fighting continued until late in the evening in the Champagne.

"We hold Challerange.

"Southeast of Ardeuil the Germans tried to drive the French from a piece of wooded ground, attacking several times. All of the assaults were repulsed.

"All of the French gains were maintained intact, and the Germans sustained heavy losses.

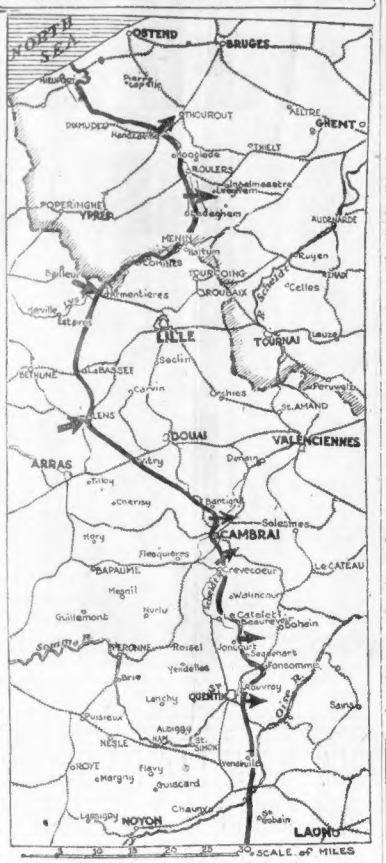
"We have captured additional prisoners.

"The attack was renewed today at dawn."

FRENCH WOUNDED FUND NOW TOTALS $414,090.41

Contributions from Mrs. Reginald de Koven and Ellen S. Bacon of $200 each to the American Fund for French wounded, and subscriptions of $100 each from Mr. and Mrs. John H. Harwood, John T. Spaulding (monthly contribution), the York Harbor and Northeast Harbor branches, were announced today. The total to date is $414,090.41.

GREAT GERMAN RETIREMENT FORCED BY FLANK MOVES



The arrows point to Lens and Armentieres, the extremes of the twenty-mile front where the Teutons are fleeing eastward as a result of the Belgo-British encircling wedge to the north and the British, French and American smashes to the south in the Cambrai district. The important city of Lille is already being evacuated by the civilian population and should be restored speedily to the French.

BIGGEST GERMAN RETREAT

In Picardy the German lines are now unofficially estimated to be nearly five miles east of St. Quentin.

North of Rheims the Germans have again retired towards the Aisne river, falling back two miles since yesterday morning. On the Eastern fringe of the Champagne district the Germans have pulled back their lines to Monthois, which is ten miles north of the old Chiamaigne fighting line.

The German troops facing the Americans between the Argonne forest and the Meuse river have been bombarding heavily and there are signs that this cannonading is to cover another big retreat.

The great German bages of Lille Douai and Laon have been put in peril by Marshal Foch's mighty and masterly flanking movement against the whole German army in Belgium and France. The Germans are not giving up ground without a struggle. They have been making violent counter attacks at many points on the front, but everywhere these assaults were crushed and the allies, in their turn, went forward.

With an Anglo-British army cutting southward from the Lys river to get in behind the northern end of the Hindenburg line at Lille, the two big battles on the Cambrai-St. Quentin and Champagne fronts were renewed today. The allies attacked in both sectors at daybreak. The Americans have been hampered by bad weather and mud, but fortunately the skies cleared today and good "fighting weather" is prevailing.

The capture of Damascus along with 2,000 Turkish prisoners by General Allenby's Palestine army was a staggering blow to the Turks.

The British can now advance swiftly up the Damascus railway or Aleppo, the chief Turkish base of operations and supplies. Aleppo supplies all the Turkish forces in Mesopotamia, and its capture would crush Turkey into absolute helplessness. Damascus is about 175 miles south of Aleppo.

8 O'Clock Curfew to Ring for Those Under 16

Listen, Boston boys and girls. You may hear the ringing of an eight o'clock curfew. Duration of the war, you know. New York is seriously considering the idea.

The Manhattan plan, as pondered now by a municipal curfew committee, is to ring the evening bell at eight o'clock, or all boys and girls under sixteen. After that hour they will not be allowed on the street without an escort. The eight o'clock limit is proposed for October to April. An hour later, or 9 p. m., is suggested for the Summer months.

On account of the short skirts it is hinted that curfew officers may have trouble distinguishing between girls and their grandmothers.

YANKEE LADS TOO SPEEDY FOR BRITISH IN PURSUIT OF BEATEN FOE

THRILLING STORY OF BATTLE

Boys Stranded on Cambral Front for 40 Hours Rescued by Comrades

By BERT FORD.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the British Army in France Oct. 2.—American youngsters who helped the British smash the Hindenburg line in the terrific struggle on the St. Quentin-Cambral front, fought with the courage and coolness of veterans.

The first details of the fighting of New York troops tell of self-sacrifice, personal bravery and presence of mind.

It was a gruelling ordeal, and the enemy defences under assault were among the most difficult on the western battle front, but the Yankee lads showed nerve and pluck that won the admiration of the seasoned British veterans alongside of whom they were fighting. There was never any thought of surrender. The dominant aim of every American unit was to avenge fallen comrades.

STRANDED FOR 40 HOURS.

The Yankees had many adventures, but that of five privates, all under voting age, was the most dramatic of all. Let Arthur Gilles, aged nineteen, of No. 128 Sherman street, Brooklyn, tell the story.

"There were five of us stranded in No Man's Land for forty hours without food and with nothing to drink except the rain water in shell holes. With me were Ernest Minder, aged twenty, of No. 2174 Bathgate avenue, the Bronx; Walter Hury, aged twenty, a Cornell student, of Staten Island; Gideon Anderson, aged twenty, a Brooklyn carpenter, and Leon Davidson, aged twenty, also of Brooklyn.

"We were in the first wave that attacked and advanced the fast that we got ahead of the others in the company. The first thing we knew we were alone, within twenty yards of the Germans. They opened fire upon us with machine guns from every point of the compass.

"Well, we all tumbled into a shell hole as fast as we could. But it was kind of lonesome not seeing any of our fellows around. The machine gun bullets from both sides were singing over our heads and the bursting shells were making so much racket that we could not hear each other talk.

ALL EXPECTED DEATH.

"Finally we noticed a little, shallow trench not more than a foot deep leading toward a dugout with two doors. We wriggled out on our stomachs like snakes and crawled for the dugout. The Germans sure did try to put us. While some were shooting at us machine guns in nests on the side of a hill put down a screen of bullets across both entrances to the dugout.

"We got in somehow and were cooped up there all day Friday. The sounds of the battle had ceased, but we knew that machine gun nests were on the doors of the dug-out and we expected a rush at any minute.

"Why the Germans did not rush us is more than I can tell you. I never expected to get out alive and the others felt the same way. We planned to escape Friday night, but the Germans kept sending up flares which made No Man's Land as bright as day.

"We did not have anything to eat after we got back. The night was cold and we were tired but not one of us dared to go to sleep.

"Day broke cold and rainy. We tried to console each other, but felt badly. Finally we decided to make a big battle and we had wanted to accomplish something. We wished we hadn't been so speedy in the rush.

RESCUE WOUNDED YANKEE.

"On Saturday night we all decided to take a chance together and try to crawl back to our trenches. We made the small trench, creeping like caterpillars and finally reached a upper trench.

"We heard a faint moaning. At first we were suspicious, but one of the fellows thought it sounded like an American, so we all decided to stick together and investigate. We crept nearer cautiously and were amazed to find a fellow from our own regiment in a shell hole, badly wounded in the legs and unable to walk. He was lying in a shell hole half covered with water. He had lain there all day Friday, Friday night and Saturday.

"We pulled him back to the dugout, as we realized that we could not leave him behind and nobody wanted to leave the rest of the bunch. And there we were back in the same old cave again.

"One of the fellows began to complain of hunger and we agreed with him. He had been slightly gassed, and we were all complaining of the same discomforts soon.

"We tried to help the wounded soldier, but he was in bad shape and was getting worse all the time. Saturday night dragged through and we had begun to give up all hope when suddenly a terrific cannonade opened up. It was coming from our side and we knew that it was a barrage that was to be followed by an attack.

"Then the Germans opened up. It was not long until Yankee and German shells were falling all around us. Then there was a rush of troops and we could hear the voices of Americans. Some one poked a bayonet into the door of the dugout and yelled:

"'Come out. Show yourselves.'

"We hollered not to shoot, nor throw grenades, because we were New Yorkers.

"It was mighty dangerous for the Americans might mistake us for German in the dark.

"The fellow outside recognized good United States talk and took us out. For by this time we were so weak we could not stand on our feet. We were revived and learned that our fellows were busting the Hindenburg line. We were certainly glad to get back with the gang."

New York Captain Fights to Death With German Lieutenant in a Trench

By BERT FORD.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the British Army in France, Oct. 2.—In the big engagement on the Cambral-St. Quentin front Sunday, in which Americans aided the British, a New York captain picked up a rifle and fought with the bayonet alongside of the privates. After the struggle he was found lying in a trench, but alongside of him was a dead German lieutenant. They had engaged in a bayonet duel, and each had killed the other.

A Brooklyn battalion saw some heavy fighting. It took a small hill, lost it, then retook it and held it.

The German machine gunners were concealed behind the hill, and the Germans kept sending up flares which made No Man's Land as bright as day.

"We did not have anything to eat after we got back. Some food was found in the dugout and water from our canteens. Finally our water gave out. The night was cold and we were tired but not one of us dared to go to sleep.

TAGUE CARRIES HIS FIGHT TO THE COURTS

Asks Hearing to Declare Fitzgerald's Congressional Nomination Invalid

On behalf of Congressman Peter F. Tague, former Congressman Joseph F. Dinneen and Frank A. Goodwin, former street commissioner of Boston, today prepared and presented to a justice of the Supreme Court an application for a hearing in the Congressman's petition to have the primary election of John F. Fitzgerald invalid.

Tague, O'Connell, Goodwin and William J. Miller, the latter for John F. Fitzgerald, voiced indignation at what they termed dilatory tactics on the part of the committee on rules. It took but only exactly forty-five minutes to decide what they would do as a result of Mr. O'Connell's request to examine all ballots used and unused, ballot sheets, check lists and other election paraphernalia in wards five and six on primary day.

The decision denied the right of the Congressional Committee to examine the democratic ballots which have already been counted, granted that other parts of the request. The decision was rendered entirely to newspaper men, as Chairman Murray F. Tague and his counsel had meanwhile withdrawn from the chamber. Their withdrawal came following a wait after an executive session on the part of the board.

BOTH SIDES PROTEST DELAY.

Chairman Murray had stated that the board had agreed, and that to defer unnecessary time it would be ready to render a decision on the Tague request at 10 o'clock this morning. Mr. O'Connell stated that in the opinion further delay was entirely unnecessary. He urged expedition, as time was fleeting and a further and further action was rapidly passing.

Mr. Miller, for Mr. Fitzgerald, interjected to say that he was also anxious. Mr. Miller, who has repeatedly declared that Fitzgerald did not to run Mr. Tague of a nomination if he has nearly received it said:

"I am disgusted with the board. They do not know their own minds for two consecutive minutes. They have no backbone. Further once I agree with counsel for the other side."

The board returned with executive session from noon and as they did Mr. O'Connell said:

CHARGES PLOT AGAINST TAGUE.

"We have made up our minds that this is a conspiracy on the part of the election board to frustrate the rights of Mr. Tague. We are going into the courts to get the rights of Mr. Tague and the rights of the people as well."

The board eventually returned with a typewritten statement to which it was said that the board had considered carefully all legal requests and had decided not to grant the request for an examination of the Democratic ballots and ballot sheets. Said ballots had already been inspected, and had resulted in a confirmation of the returns as made by the election officers. They granted the right to inspect the unused ballots in wards five and six.

The board then went on record as saying that it had been fair to all parties concerned, and that it was impartial in its acts, decisions and utterances and had performed their duties as provided by law.

Gen. Gorgas Retires; Gen. Ireland for Surgeon-General

Washington, Oct. 3.—Official announcement of the appointment of Major-General Merritt W. Ireland to the post of surgeon general of the army, to succeed Major-General W. C. Gorgas, will soon be made. This was learned authoritatively at the war department today. General Gorgas retires on account of age today. He went to France with Secretary of War Baker recently and it is said he will act in the supreme allied war council at Versailles as the nominal representative of the United States army.

General Ireland is the surgeon-general of the American Expeditionary Forces, and will return to this country to assume his new duties.

Brigadier-General Robert E. Noble, assistant to General Gorgas, is understood to be slated for General Ireland's post on General Pershing's staff.

'TOT' FRENCH GOES TO WORK IN STORE

Rather than return to the millionaire husband whom she now asserts she despises, embittered by her short matrimonial career, Mrs. Edward Tuck French, otherwise known as "Tot" French, has been working for the past month as a stock girl in the millinery department of one of Boston's big stores.

Hiding her identity under an assumed name, she came and went, handling the dainty hats and bonnets, caressing the sumptuous velvets and the precious things that the wealth of her one-week husband would have enabled her to have for her own, had Fate been kinder to her.

But she worked happy and unconcerned, unnoticed and unobserved until one day, a one-time girl friend strolled into the store. "Hello, Tot. Are you working here?" And the proverbial cat was out of the bag.

Tot at once confessed to the girls of the department, begging them to shield her, and to allow her to earn her own living in her own way, away from the prying eyes of the public. And they promised—and then—then somebody told.

DISMISSED FROM JOB.

Gone was the blissful seclusion, gone was the splendid opportunity to earn her living, to feed and clothe herself on the mere pittance that the "parlor stock" girl earns. Tot French knew from that day that her hour had struck again. And it was no surprise to her to be called into the office of the firm, for an explanation.

Today—Tot French is facing the world again, determined to secure work "anywhere," and nothing on earth could induce me to return to live for one moment—ever again, to that man."

In the meantime Ed French has been sending ambassadors to her, begging her to meet him, to give him "one more chance," to come to this hotel, or that hotel, so that he may talk to her and tell her of his repentance. To all of these importunities "Tot" has turned a deaf ear.

She wears darned cotton stockings, when she might wear the finest of pure silk, if she would but listen to him. She wears toned and patched shoes—when the finest of the shoemaker's art is at her command—if she would only go back to him. She wears the plainest of little serge frocks—neat and trim—but worn, and she excels in preference the velvets, the silks and the furs that she might purchase, at the price of her independence. But "she will never go back," she says.

NOT SEEKING NOTORIETY.

"Tot" French is not seeking notoriety these days. If she was she would have jumped at the chance offered her to go into the chorus of the "Follies" last week, to earn a good salary by exploiting herself as the one-time bride of the millionaire Frenchman.

She seeks none of these things. Only a chance to support herself, to earn enough to feed and to clothe her, and to give her a place to lay her head—this is all that "Tot" French—the girl who might have millions—asks of the world.

And the world—raising eyebrows and questioning her history—shrugs indifferent shoulders—and says, "We can't have you, here."

So far she has found it impossible to get back to her old position as a telephone operator. All Summer she worked as a mother's helper, caring for little children, and finding solace, comfort and seclusion in this work.

Today—even the chance to hide her identity under an assumed name, working as a stock girl, is denied her. Today—under some other name and in some other city, she must try again to find a chance to earn her bread and butter, and to support herself, unaided, save by her two frail, delicate, untrained hands.

EVERETT COMPANY WINS TAX APPEAL

By decision of the County Commissioners, the Merrimac Chemical Company, Everett, will pay taxes on a valuation of $975,075 instead of $254,600, as formerly. The decision follows an appeal by the company against a valuation of $1,475,350, fixed in 1917 under the administration of Mayor Mullen. This is the first decision rendered in a number of cases brought against the city as a result of former Mayor Mullen's action in raising valuations on local property in an effort to reduce the tax rate during his administration.

HOTELS RETAIN A LA CARTE SERVICE

Keep a stiff upper lip, Mr. Hotel, you who like to go through the "bill of fare" at so much per head—Boston hotels are not going to adopt the table d'hote service at present.

Following the example New York hotels, in order to conserve food, had substituted table d'hote for a la carte service sent a stir of interest through hotel-dom. Hosts traveling room, who have to pay $2 or $3 for the kind of meal they like, began to figure that they could get a meal of several courses for half the price, less and frugal ladies, on the other hand, who never eat at a public place without computing electrically how cheaply they could have provided the same meal at home, and get along on roast and tea while they are away from their own blue and white ware, were dismayed at the thought that they would have to pay for luncheon or tea at the one-arm lunch counter.

Both were needlessly exercised.

"We haven't planned anything of the kind, and I hope we don't have to come to it," said the manager of the Vanderbilt in New York is already doing it.

"Don't think it would conserve food," said another. It would mean a smaller menu, of course but on the other hand, people who pay for table d'hote meal always have something served them that they don't order a la carte. We may come to it, but certainly not at present."

EXPERT SAYS FIGURES SHOW PLAGUE IS TWO-THIRDS OVER IN BOSTON

World—in Asia, the ancient mother of plagues, and five of all epidemics and pestilences. From which human bothed it swept westward through Russia into Germany and Northern Europe and through Asia Minor and the Mediterranean to Spain and Western Europe.

EPIDEMIC BEGAN IN RUSSIA.

Ever since February last there have been rumors of a mysterious epidemic first in Russia and then in Germany, called "hunger fever," "war fever" or "war cholera," and it is reported with some apparent credibility that the German Spring offensive was delayed some weeks by the spread of this disease among her home population and that the extraordinary reverses and rapid crumbling of the German defense, of late blessed memory, under our superb Allied offensive with splendid fresh troops, was accelerated by the spread of the disease to their forces at the front and its raging up and down their trenches.

What is of sufficient record, however, is that the first European country to openly acknowledge the existence of the influenza was Spain, last Spring and early Summer. Though this was probably due to the fact that she was the first country invaded which had nothing to gain and no military reasons for suppressing the news, or was ready to speak right out in meeting about it. From Spain, after a very wide but mild course, resulting in only about 60 deaths all told, it passed on to England, where again it was almost as harmless as it was prevalent, scoring only about 1,500 deaths.

The first appearance of the epidemic, however, on our coasts was from Norway, probably of Spanish origin, at New York, which spread extremely slowly, and then in a second from England at the port of Boston, from which it spread like wildfire, as we have painfully cause to know. How little the war has had to do with its spread may be seen from the curious facts that the first victims were those whose nutrition and vigor is by far the least affected, and of all the belligerent countries, has developed the most tumultuous type of the epidemic, and that our army in France has been very lightly affected by the disease, while the severest punishment which it has inflicted in this country so far has been upon our boys in the naval training schools and the army cantonments.

FIRST APPEARS IN CAMPS.

The epidemic has been running in Boston and New England for about four weeks, apparently with a startling first in the Naval Training School and receiving station at Commonwealth Pier, spreading thence to Camp Devens, then no to Camp Upton and other cantonments, entering into the general community. As it has already died out among the naval stations after about a three weeks' course of about three weeks and is rapidly subsiding at Camp Devens after a very severe one of the same length, there is reason to hope that its run among the civilian population has pretty nearly reached its height.

The influenza unfortunately will not become a reportable disease in Massachusetts until tomorrow, that is to say, one which all physicians are required by law to report to the Health Office, so that we have no basis for even an intelligent estimate of the total number of cases so far. And this is further complicated by the fact that while Boston city proper is under one health commissioner, the different towns and suburbs of Boston have each their own separate health organizations, and doctors residing in Boston city treat and attend cases in the outlying Greater Boston and vice versa as regards doctors living in the surrounding towns, while the outlying towns send their serious cases down to the Boston city hospitals, and in turn receive in their hospitals cases from the city wards.

The only possible basis upon which even an approximate estimate can be made is by comparison with the proportion between cases and deaths in Camp Devens and among the naval training men. Camp Devens, out of 45,000 troops, has reported roughly 13,000 cases of influenza and 1,500 cases of pneumonia, with a little over 600 deaths. This would make a proportion of deaths to cases of about 4 per cent. Among the naval stations the epidemic has been much milder with less than 1 per cent. of deaths.

If we split the difference between the two, giving us a death rate of about 2 per cent., as there have been in Boston proper all told from influenza in the past three weeks, in the neighborhood of 1,500 deaths—though it is questionable whether all cases so reported are really due to it—this would give us a probable or possible number of perhaps 40,000 cases so far.

CHANCES OF INDIVIDUALS.

And it is a very severe and infectious epidemic which affects over 10 per cent. of the people in any of the entire population, this would indicate possibility, even a credible probability, that the epidemic in Boston may be about two-thirds over.

To come to the personal aspect of the situation the chances of being attacked by influenza are about one in ten to one in six, and if one is attacked the chances of developing pneumonia are about one to seven, and of dying of it about one in twenty-five.

So that each one of us individually has about a 1-in-30 one chance of survival, which ought not to cause us any serious alarm.

The other danger of this epidemic like most others of influenza is that it is very contagious, spreading somewhere from the third to the fifth day of the fever. But if we go home from the beginning of the disease we have a chance at least two-thirds of this risk.

Another precaution which is of undoubted value is that the disease is spread almost entirely by breathing in the germs coughed or sneezed out into the air by a diseased person. The first to keep away as far as possible from persons who are coughing or sneezing or who have a cold or running nose and uncomfortable, and when you are obliged to come in contact with such cases use strict care and rinsing and subway stations, hold your handkerchief over your face and mouth. Or if you feel very uneasy about the risk do on a right mask or respirator, which is simply a piece of covering your nose and mouth.

It is much better to be ridiculous than dead.

The situation is being splendidly faced and handled by the health authorities, the State Board of Health, under the able leadership of Dr. Kelley, and the City Health Department, under that of Dr. Woodward, whose name inspires confidence among casual observers in the United States.

TRYING NEW VACCINE.

Nor are the forces of science fighting only on the defensive. Bacteriologists everywhere are busily at work trying out vaccines for the prevention of the disease and inoculations for its cure. As this is a hitherto unheard-of epidemic of influenza since the great pandemic of 1889-1892, there has been no opportunity to test the value of these vaccines, or killed cultures of the bacteria supposed to cause the disease until within the last two or three weeks. So that the time has not been long enough for positive tests of their value.

But Dr. Louis of Tufts Medical College and Dr. Park of the Board of Health Laboratory in New York, have both developed vaccines in which they have great confidence and are sending them out with distinctly encouraging results so far.

Dr. Leary has vaccinated, within the last two weeks, nearly 2,000 persons, chiefly doctors, nurses and medical students who are specially exposed to the disease, with the gratifying results that less than one per cent of them have developed the disease so far and all in very mild form, which is about five per cent. as compared with 20 per cent. to be expected for the rest of the community, and as the 2,000 persons include doctors and nurses who have not been protected.

Within the past ten days he has been supplying the vaccine to hospital and private physicians for use in the treatment of the disease, with encouraging results so far.

It is also said that anything positive as yet, as the influenza and the pneumonia following it vary so great-

Boston Naval Man Discovers Vaccine to End Plague

Washington, Oct. 3.—The discovery of a vaccine serum preventive against Spanish influenza is believed by officials in the navy Surgeon-General's office to have been made by Lieutenant Commander M. H. Rossman.

The serum now is being tested at Pelham Bay, naval training station, which place was selected because of the very large, proportionately, number of naval recruits there who have not yet been touched with the disease.

The offices of the Surgeon-General of the navy and of the public health service are interested in the report that comes from New York that Dr. William H. Park, bacteriologist of the New York Health Department, has discovered a prophylactic against the influenza.

The discovery of Lieutenant Commander Rossman appears not to be known to the public health service or to the public yet. Dr. Rossman is a Harvard man who has been on duty at Boston. He entered the service as a reserve officer.

is in virulence in different cases but one thing that I have seen strikes me as significant.

I have visited five at the larger hospitals of Boston within the last three days, in three of which no vaccine had been used and two which had been giving it to their patients for from a week to twelve days. To put it very roughly the three hospitals in which no vaccine had been tried have had about 60 cases of influenza and pneumonia all told with a death rate of about 30 per cent. for the past three weeks, the past week being as heavy and if one of them heavier than the first.

The two hospitals in which the vaccine has been used had first also a death rate of about 30 per cent. in nearly two cases for the ten days before it was announced, three for the ten days after its use was begun some 150 cases with a death rate of 2 per cent. which is rather a striking and hopeful contrast.

EXPERTS STUDYING RESULTS.

Other hospitals and private physicians are trying the vaccine to test its merit and the health authorities have most wisely and fairly appointed two committees of experts of the highest standing, one of pathologists and bacteriologists on the other of sanitarians and statisticians, to study the results both of its protection and its curative use and report their findings at the earliest possible day.

In the meantime they are assisting in the production of the vaccine upon a massive scale, so that in the event of their finding it of permanent value it can be administered and distributed most quickly to the entire population until within the last two or three weeks. So that the time has not been long enough for positive tests of their value.

But Dr. Leary of Tufts Medical College and Dr. Park of the Board of Health Laboratory in New York, have both developed vaccines in which they have great confidence and are sending them out with distinctly encouraging results so far.

Dr. Leary has vaccinated, within the last two weeks, nearly 2,000 persons, chiefly doctors, nurses and medical students who are specially exposed to the disease, with the gratifying results that less than one per cent of them have developed the disease so far and all in very mild form, which is about five per cent. as compared with 20 per cent. to be expected for the rest of the community, and as the 2,000 persons include doctors and nurses who have not been protected.

Within the past ten days he has been supplying the vaccine to hospital and private physicians for use in the treatment of the disease, with encouraging results so far.

It is also said that anything positive as yet, as the influenza and the pneumonia following it vary so great-drastic steps to be taken to stamp out the disease everywhere in the country.

1—Emergency Health Committee meeting with Mayor Peters at 4 o'clock to decide whether all churches shall be closed next Sunday.

2—Same committee will decide later whether saloons shall be closed during epidemic.

Governor McCall in his letter to Mr. Morrow pointed out that because of the ban on Sunday auto riding thousands of people were remaining indoors on Sunday who should be out in the air and advised him in order to strengthen their systems to ward off the disease.

DRAFT TESTS DELAYED.

Legal advisory boards in Massachusetts were closed by the order of General Crowder, made public by Adjutant General Jesse F. Stevens today. All local boards were advised that meetings of registrants with legal advisory boards and physical examinations of registrants are off until further notice.

If necessary an extension of time will be given registrants who have not yet filled out their questionnaires.

The purpose of the order is said to be twofold, to prevent registrants from becoming infected with the disease and to release doctors who have been making physical examinations.

Dr. Simpson in charge of the medical forces at Lowell has telegraphed for more nurses and Smith college has sent in a hurry call for more nurses on account of the sudden increase in the number of cases. An additional dormitory will be opened for the accommodation of the victims.

CONFERENCE ON CHURCHES.

The Emergency Public Health Committee will confer with Mayor Peters this afternoon at 4 o'clock to decide whether all the churches in the city will be closed next Sunday, on account of the unofficial opinion of members of the committee that it would be a wise precaution to prohibit gatherings of any kind in the churches until the epidemic is over.

However the committee also stated that they would decide at a later meeting whether the churches would be closed during the epidemic.

From 9 o'clock today up to noon a total of sixty-five deaths from the disease were reported at the office of the Boston health commissioner, City Hall. Fifty-four of these deaths were, from influenza and ten from pneumonia.

In the same period yesterday, forty-eight deaths from both diseases were reported, an increase today of seventeen deaths.

The fluctuation in the death rate is puzzling the physicians, for one day the rate decreases and the disease appears to be waning only to break out in new places on the following death and claim a larger number of victims.

The continued closing of the schools until October 14 released a large number of school teachers who hastened to Room No. 362 at the State House and offered their services to the Emergency Public Health Committee. They were accepted and assigned to homes where there is a demand for nurses, nurses assistants and cooks.

Dr. Woodward, city health commissioner, reported that a number of chauffeurs and cooks had volunteered their services for hospitals and had been assigned at once. Hospitals are making steady demands for bakers, cooks and chauffeurs who can drive ambulances or automobiles.

The steady spread of the disease westward has alarmed the public health service at Washington and instructions to take the most drastic steps to fight the disease everywhere are being sent out.

Washington set the example for the rest of the country by compelling the retail stores to open at 10 o'clock, one hour later than usual in order to prevent the spread of the disease by overcrowding in the cars. The various governmental departments also started work at different hours, and the authorities are considering the closing of all theatres and public places.

BRINGING AID TO BOSTON.

Twenty more doctors arrived from outside of the state today to assist in fighting the influenza in Massachusetts. They were assigned to cities and towns outside of Boston where the disease is reported to be increasing by Dr. Draper who is in charge of the government work in New England. His rooms in the State House were thronged today with physicians who volunteered their services.

Meanwhile, pneumonia following influenza claimed Patrolman Joseph Sheridan of No. 21 Tobin street for a victim. He was forty-one and had been in the police department for twenty-one years. He was driver of the ambulance at Station No. 19.

While increase in the number of deaths was noted at the office of the City Health Commissioner, the same official received figures from the hospitals of the city showing a decrease in the number of hospital cases from 1329 to 1258.

An emergency hospital was established in the Board of Trade Building, Court street, Arlington, today to cope with the influenza epidemic. Mrs. Roger W. Homer, a graduate nurse was placed in charge of the wards by the Board of Health. Arlington reported a slight decrease in new cases. All schools will remain closed to Oct. 14, and Sunday all Protestant churches will remain closed.

Mrs. Edward Wright, chairman of the food conservation committee for Dorchester, sent out an appeal today for women to assist in the distribution of hot soups and cereals to those families that are suffering from influenza and who are unable to prepare food for themselves. Mrs. Wright is in charge of the soup kitchen that has been established at Codman Square, for the emergency.

An appeal was sent out to owners of automobiles, asking voluntary service in the distribution and delivery of the soups and food stuffs to those families who are unable to be reached in other ways.

Miss Converse's Country Estate to Be Used for Soldiers Sick With Grip

To let soldiers, recovering from influenza, have pleasant surroundings in a country home, Mrs. Mary Converse of the Back Bay, captain of squadron 1, Red Cross Ambulance Corps, has offered her estate at Dover. Major Arthur J. Austin of the Medical Department of the Northeast has accepted the offer and will send a few of the convalescing soldiers to the estate.

HIGH AMERICAN POST SHELLED BY TEUTONS

Montfaucon Stronghold, Used as Observation Post, Worries the Boches

By NEWTON C. PARKE.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army Northwest of Verdun, Oct. 2. (Night)—The Germans are steadily shelling the dominating American position at Montfaucon, with the object of preventing its use as an observation point.

This ridge overlooks the Boche positions as far as Grand Pre, twelve miles to the northeast, permitting the Americans to observe the movements behind the enemy's lines.

The conditions are similar to those that previously existed on the Toul front where the Germans, from the height of Mont Sec were able to observe our movements before it fell into the Yankees' hands in the St. Mihiel offensive.

There was intense shelling throughout the day. Although the Germans fell back slightly during the night, enabling us to advance further in the Argonne, evidently intend to make a strong stand on the Kreimhilde-Stellung line, which we have already reached near Cierges.

$150,000 ROBBERY OF BERKSHIRE JEWELS

Pittsfield, Oct. 2.—New York detectives, working upon the jewel robbery at Ashintully Farm, Tyringham, the country home of Mrs. John Stuart McLennan, are maintaining the greatest secrecy regarding the description and number of the many pieces that were to make up the $150,000 worth of jewels that were taken from the house.

The robbery, the third among the wealthy colony about here within a month, has completely paralyzed the police, and servants are worried for fear his home will be selected next by thieves, who have so far escaped detection.

Entrance to the McLennan home was effected by means of a second story window, which was pried open. This led directly into Mrs. McLennan's dressing room, where her splendid collection of pearls, diamonds and a diamond pendant were kept. The robbery was not discovered until morning.

Other robberies in this section include the theft of $10,000 in jewels collected from the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Appleton Wade of Stockbridge and that of $5,000 in jewels from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hagden of the Lenox colony of Stockbridge.

Mrs. McLennan was the widow of Robb Dellveyster Tytus of Tyringham, at one time a member of the Legislature. Her marriage to John Stuart McLellin, a member of the Canadian Parliament, occurred three years ago.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS ACTIVE.

American anti-aircraft guns have been very active and they brought down three enemy planes. One of the pilots of the destroyed planes descended in a parachute and was captured. The other pilots were killed. Enemy aviators dropped numerous smoke bombs over the American lines east of Cierges, but no infantry attack developed.

An American airmen flew over the Varhes' advanced positions and dropped 2,000 newspapers and 10,000 circulars for the doughboys.

The doughboys scrambled out of their shellholes and picked up the newspapers in spite of shrapnel fire from the enemy.

American raiders dropped three tons of bombs on St. Juvin and a ton more on Grand Pre, causing both fires and explosions which were plainly observable.

German planes attacked the American airmen and Lieutenants Richardson and Corby shot one down in flames. Lieutenants Tytus and Starrick drove another down in a spectacular nose dive and Lieutenants Decamp and Epy shot off the wings of a third. Lieutenant Waterbury, Lieutenant Mather scored direct hits on seven small and one large German flare near Clerges aerodrome.

BUILDING NEW DEFENSES.

Counter attacks were delivered by the Germans in an effort to hold up our advance, and in the meantime German soldiers are working feverishly on the line building new defenses and dugouts.

There was a heavy artillery bombardment along practically the entire front yesterday morning, but the only infantry fighting was carried on by patrols. Our patrols have made some progress in the Argonne Forest.

The enemy apparently was expecting an infantry attack, as a heavy barrage was thrown on the left wing of the American forces, which was shifted toward the center.

Allied gunners on the east of the Meuse River opened up an intensive bombardment against the Boche lines. Seven of our guns on the western bank of the Meuse joined in. The Germans are harassing the rear of the millions of the American army with their long-range guns.

WIDE NO MAN'S LAND.

At present there is a wide zone of No Man's Land between the allies and the enemy on this front. Only patrols are operating in this territory, which is under fire a great part of the time.

American patrols are pushing forward in the Argonne forest and have succeeded in crossing the Aire-mont after sneezing gas and phosgene bombardment.

The German lines have been continually bombarding the region between Exermont and Gesnes fourth of April with sneezing gas and phosgene shells.

EDWIN ARDEN, ACTOR, DIES OF HEART DISEASE

New York, Oct. 3.—Edwin Arden, well known actor and playwright, dropped dead of heart disease after he had climbed three flights of stairs to keep a business engagement at the apartment of Miss Elsie Rizer, an actress. Mr. Arden had just come from a rehearsal of a play which was to have been produced October 14. Mrs. Arden, the actor's wife, was informed of his death and went immediately to Miss Rizer's apartment. Arden was 55 years of age.

LAST CALL FOR DRAFTEES' QUERIES

Last call on draft questions!

As the majority of men in New England within draft age have already filed their questionaires the Boston AMERICAN is to discontinue answering questions pertaining to this human document. If any readers still have questions they wish to ask, inquiries concerning the questionnaire they should be sent in at once.

Today is the last day to tell your troubles to the Draft Editor, so get busy if something puzzles you. Letters should contain full name and address and be addressed to "Draft Editor, Boston AMERICAN, Boston, Mass."

Recently received questions and their answers follow:

Draft Editor—I am eighteen years old and graduated from a commercial school and completed a two-years' course in bookkeeping and stenography, and since then have been filling a position as private secretary. Is there any school or college under government control where I may specialize in these branches of study, training either for an army or navy or quartermaster corps in the army? Or is there other position in the service where I may be able to put my commercial training to use?

R. S. Hamden, N. H.

Ans.—See officer in charge of Central Officers' Training Camps, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, Mass. You may also apply to the State Agricultural College, Durham, N. H.

Draft Editor—I am five feet seven inches and weigh 110 pounds, am in good health. Kindly tell me if I will be fit for the army or navy or if there is any chance for me to enlist. If they take me I would not wait to be drafted, but would go of my own accord.

E. G. Boston.

Ans.—You will probably be called. If you wish to get into service immediately call on local board and tell them about your desire and you will be fixed up.

Draft Editor—Are thoroughly experienced accountants being exempted owing to scarcity of such, or are they drafted in same time as others? I would one such, aged thirty-nine, have no slight physical disability, not apparent but sufficient to bar him from active military service be likely, if drafted, to get a job at his own business in some war plant, or how could he arrange for such classification?

S. S., Boston.

Ans.—No special provision has been made for accountants, but the chances are that unless such a man is in a pivotal position he will be called for active service.

Draft Editor—I am a Canadian, a year ago I was drafted into the United States army and was rejected from Camp Devens on account of low hip. I am a fisherman by trade and would like to know what class I will come under and if I can be drafted again.

M. McD., Provincetown.

Ans.—You will probably be placed in Class 2 if you are necessary to the fishing industry, which is an essential one.

Draft Editor—I am living with my wife; will she still be my nearest relative? I live with my parents; where can I find out whether a man has registered?

H. S., Boston.

Ans.—You can put the name of either parent down as nearest relative. To find out whether a man has registered call on local board in the district where he lives or write to the board.

Draft Editor—About three years ago my husband married me and our six children. He has been in service in France for one year. I have not received a cent from him. How much is he supposed to allow me and how may I claim it? Only one of our children is self-supporting.

Mrs. W., Boston.

Ans.—Write War Risk Insurance Bureau, Washington, D. C., and tell them all about it and you will get what is due you.

Draft Editor—I have registered under the last draft and wish to inquire if I change my residence to a different part of the city, state or county will my change of residence to the different section noted above automatically transfer me to the particular board which has jurisdiction over the section that I move to?

In the case of a dealer who handles certain materials and who is a supplier to contractors of war work and who is considered an essential industry and if this dealer will be granted exemption providing his services are indispensable to the firm.

A. Providence, R. I.

Ans.—You must apply to local board if you wish your case to be considered by another local board.

2—It will depend on whether you are necessary to a necessary enterprise.

GEORGE McMANUS, NOTED THEATRICAL MAN, DEAD

New York, Oct. 3.—George McManus, seventy-two, one of the oldest theatrical managers in this city, is dead at the Park Hospital. He was father of George McManus, the comic artist, author of "Bringing Up Father."

Mr. McManus was born in Ireland and came here as a boy. He was first manager of the St. Louis "Browns." Later he was associated with A. H. Woods and Grau in the management of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

'HAND OF VENGEANCE' FULL OF SURPRISES

A thrilling scene in the new film, "The Hand of Vengeance," soon to be seen in New England movie houses.

The opening chapter of "The Hand of Vengeance" will soon be another of the large films throughout New England. Photoplay lovers may well look forward to something decidedly unconventional, full of new twists and surprising in the several chapters, all of which have been cleverly arranged that even though one may skip a chapter here and there, the interest in the story is not lost.

Each episode deals with a different couple and although the plot is complex a story is readily understood, naturally, the complexity is left to the conclusion of the chapter with a strong theory as to the probable solution.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards's determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. Sods strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "foggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c a box. All druggists.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This really to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

NEW ENGLAND LAGGING

Boston's Total Subscriptions to "Fighting Fourth" for Today is $5,003,000.

official slogan of "BUY EARLY" has apparently failed to arouse the response anticipated.

At the rate of half a billion in four days, it will require forty-eight days, or until November 14, to complete by subscribe the six billion of bonds issued in the name of the Fourth Loan.

MASSACHUSETTS IN LEAD.

A crum of comfort for New England, however, is contained in the good news, that, from all of the twelve Federal Reserve Districts in the country, New England thus far holds the honor of second place.

Of the subscriptions for the day, Massachusetts contributes $10,462,600; Connecticut, $1,640,000; Rhode Island, $1,459,000; Maine, $1,458,000; New Hampshire, $1,000,000.

The State totals now stand Maine, $6,575,000; New Hampshire, $4,163,000; Vermont, $2,313,000; Rhode Island, $5,841,000; Connecticut, $23,885,000; Massachusetts, $77,617,000.

The number of individual subscribers 109,295.

Boston subscription for today, the fourth day, from which credits must be taken later, is $5,003,000.

Up to Wednesday night Mrs. William H. Schofield, chairman for New Hampshire, had received from her district chairmen reports of sales in the Newport district of $2,000, Lincoln, $2,800; Plymouth, $1,850; Holderness, $2,600; Compton, $100, Woodstock, $500; Dover, 21,350; Dublin, $2,200; Hancock, $5,050; Greenfield, $2,000; Center Jaffrey, $2,250; East Jaffrey, $22,000; Concord, $52,400.

VERMONT REPORT GOOD.

The total reported secured in Liberty Loan subscriptions by the women of three cities and seven towns of Vermont to Mrs. Fay Safford Smith, state chairman of the Fourth Loan, follows: Caledonia County, $197,800; Chittenden, $286,400; Franklin, $126,950; Rutland, $241,600; Washington, $215,100; Windsor, $1,500; Stockbridge, $2,250.

Mrs. Robert Hobson, chairman of Essex County, reports subscriptions from the town of Essex amounting to $141,200, and the number of bonds sold 276, during the first two days of the drive. Mrs. Hull, local chairman, is enthusiastic in charge of the response which gave the committee over 50 per cent of its quota the first day.

Miss Katherine F. Gauss, publicity chairman for Essex County, sends in the word to headquarters this morning that Swampscott women are quietly securing subscription in spite of adverse conditions which total $12,800, and Peabody women to their credit $2,800.

PASSED MARK FIRST DAY.

Northboro, Ashburn and Sunderland sent word that they had over-subscribed their quota on the Fourth Loan. Northboro's quota was $50,000 and passed the mark on the first day. It is now seeking to have its name, if possible, put on one of the new tanks or ships.

Connecticut's representative on the list of candidates for honor flags was pomfret.

Sergeant Polley, one of the wounded American soldiers who have come to New England to help the Fourth Loan, tells of the inspiring way in which our men in the hospitals are buying Liberty bonds. In his ward alone, in Hospital No. 9, the men took $1,000 worth and in the whole hospital over $5,000 worth. This is in spite of the fact that after all deductions the enlisted man is getting less than $1a month back from his pay.

NEW ENGLAND MUST WAKE UP.

Liberty Loan workers were keenly interested to know that in the returns for the first three days from all Federal Reserve Districts, the New England District stood second in the amount of total subscriptions, but it was recognized quite as clearly that to get the total of $500,000,000 allotted for the greatest and most persistent effort.

It means a daily subscription of $25,000,000 for the balance of the campaign to reach the quota, and every dollar of the new loan is needed by the men at the front and their allies, in pressing home the successes which are being won in battle against the Germans.

The city of Rutland entered a report showing that that place is keeping up the splendid pace which the state of Vermont generally is showing in the Fourth Loan. Against a quota of $365,000 the campaigners have secured subscriptions of $1,135,000 with the pledges still coming. There are already 3,300 subscribers from a population of 12,000 or very nearly 25 per cent. Already twelve industrial pennants have been earned out of a possible fourteen. Ninety per cent. of the business houses are displaying the Honor Emblem showing that ninety per cent. of more employes have made subscriptions.

EIGHT MORE "OVER TOP."

Eight more communities in New Hampshire have passed their quota on the Fourth Loan, according to the figures of the local chairmen. They are Bonesvan, East Kingston, Harrisville, Hebron, Hollisby, Piermont, Sharon, and Strathan. In all twenty cities and towns in the State have their quotas, and as soon as they have qualified with a showing of 15 per cent. at least of population, they will be entitle, each, a Community Honor Flag.

Two more schooners the Henrietta and the Acushla, and the beamed trawler Wave are now flying, each, a 100 per cent Industrial Honor Pennant of the Fourth Loan.

The Boston Trades Committee have also awarded Industrial Honor Pennants to the following firms:

SALEM PASSES MILLION AND HALF MARK IN DRIVE

Salem has passed the $1,500,000 mark in its drive to subscribe its quota of $3,000,000. The Liberty Loan election, scheduled for tomorrow and Saturday, will be held, but without the bond-voters, or subscribers, taking their ballots to ward rooms. The ballots will be issued with individual subscriptions and then deposited in the mail boxes.

Mail collectors will pick up the ballots with the regular mail. The ballots will be delivered to the Liberty Loan Committee for "vote certificates." The Liberty Loan parade, which was to be held in connection with the election, has been abandoned on account of the epidemic.

MANILA OVER THE TOP IN 4TH LOAN DRIVE

New York, Oct. 3.—In the first day of the present Liberty Loan campaign the residents of Manila, P. I., subscribed for more than half the quota of the island, according to a cablegram received by the New York agency of the Philippine National Bank, which brought the news that the people on the first day amounted to $3,650,000. The quota of the island is $6,000,000.

An Unanswerable Argument

The Initiative and Referendum simply restores to the people an essential right which the framers of our Constitution inadvertently overlooked—the right of controlling when necessary the acts of their elected agents, the members of the Senate and House of Representatives. Read what is said on this point by John D. W. Bodfish of Barnstable, a member of the Constitutional Convention, who was formerly nominated for Congress by the Democratic party:

"In every large business enterprise, just as in the people's business that we call government, it is found necessary to delegate authority to agents and representatives, BUT THAT AUTHORITY IS NEVER IN PRIVATE BUSINESS DELEGATED WITHOUT CONTROL OR RESTRAINT. Every owner of a private enterprise reserves the power of controlling and directing the work of his agents whenever control and direction may be necessary, and NEVER LIMITS HIMSELF TO THE RIGHT OF DISCHARGING HIS AGENT AT THE END OF THE YEAR. So, as a business proposition, the people must have the control over their public servants which can only be secured by providing the means whereby the people themselves may enact laws which the Legislature has persistently refused to enact, or veto any wrongful act which the Legislature has passed. THE INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM TAKES NOTHING AWAY FROM THE LEGISLATURE, BUT SIMPLY RESERVES TO THE PEOPLE THE POWER OF COMPELLING IT TO DO ITS DUTY."

If you believe that THE PEOPLE SHOULD RETAIN THIS POWER OVER THEIR AGENTS, do not rest satisfied with voting for candidates at the State Election. The Initiative and Referendum Amendment will HEAD THE LIST OF REFERENDA on the ballot. Find it and vote for it!

ALL TOGETHER NOW FOR PEACH STONES!

What boy or girl has collected the largest number of peach and other fruit stones to help save soldiers' lives?

Miss Audrey Olga Lydiard, who is only ten, has made a fine record. She lives at No. 42B Prescott street, Somerville, and this is her record of collection to date:

900 peach stones.
137 plum and prune stones.
57 date stones.
Half a pound of nut shells.

It would be pretty hard to beat that record and Miss Lydiard is patriotically proud of it. But perhaps some boy or girl has done better than this. Write to the Peach Stone Editor of the Boston AMERICAN, No. 80 Summer street, making your letter short, and tell how many stones you have collected.

Miss Lydiard has turned all the fruit stones she has collected over to the Red Cross. Do the same with the fruit stones you collect, no matter how many you have.

If you haven't got a button yet to show why you are collecting these stones write in and get one. Or come if you can.

$3.50 $4.00 $4.50 $5.00 $6.00 $7.00 & $8.00

BOYS' SHOES $3.00 $3.50

You'll never need to ask "What is the price?" when the shoe salesman is showing you W.L.Douglas shoes because the actual value is determined and the retail price fixed at the factory before W. L. Douglas name and the retail price is stamped on the bottom. The stamped price is W. L. Douglas personal guarantee that the shoes are always worth the price paid for them.

Stamping the price on every pair of shoes as a protection against high prices and unreasonable profits is only one example of the constant endeavor of W. L. Douglas to protect his customers. W. L. Douglas name on shoes is his pledge that they are the best in materials, workmanship and style possible to produce at the price. Into every pair go the results of sixty-six years experience in making shoes, dating back to the time when W. L. Douglas was a lad of seven, pegging shoes.

The quality of W. L. Douglas product is guaranteed by more than 40 years experience in making fine shoes. The smart styles are the leaders in the fashion centres of America. They are made in a well-equipped factory at Brockton, Mass., by the highest paid, skilled shoemakers, under the direction and supervision of experienced men, all working with an honest determination to make the best shoes for the price that money can buy. The retail prices are the same everywhere. They cost no more in San Francisco than they do in New York.

CAUTION—Before you buy be sure W. L. Douglas name and the retail price is stamped on the bottom and the inside top facing. If the stamped price has been mutilated, BEWARE OF FRAUD.

N. H. RAILROAD LOSER IF R. I. CO. IS WRECKED

Company Would Lose Equity and Save Only the Owned Trolley Lines

The Boston AMERICAN prints today the fourth in a series of articles on the trolley situation in Rhode Island. They will be continued from day to day until the entire question of street railway service for the people has been thoroughly explained.

The articles printed in the AMERICAN are non-partisan in character and as fair and comprehensive as they can be made through available and reliable information.

By CHARLES O. ROWER.

But to get back to Mr. Fitzgerald. He points out that, if the worst fears of the Rhode Island Company, as expressed by Mr. Farnsworth, one of the Federal trustees, come to pass, and the company is wrecked through the additional expense of living wages for the employes, the result will be bad for the New Haven Railroad.

That company would lose all equity in its investment save only the value of the owned lines, amounting to about $2,282,000. The $10,000,000 or $11,900,000 which it claims to have expended on the lines of the leased companies would belong to the Rhode Island Company if its leases should be abrogated, and the New Haven Railroad, as the owner of the Rhode Island company, would be the loser to that amount.

Mr. Fitzgerald believes that, if there is danger of the system going to smash, as Trustee Green so strongly intimates, the New Haven would be glad to make a reasonable bargain with the State that would save at least a part of such a loss.

Trustee Gardiner Green testified, says Mr. Fitzgerald, that the Rhode Island Company has been paying 5 per cent. on $8,000,000 of watered stock, or $400,000 a year, which it had no business to pay. The saving of this amount together with the saving of other smaller amounts of a similar nature would at once wipe out the present deficit and assure the operation of the system on improved lines and conditions fraught with profit.

CAN OPERATE AT PROFIT.

Hon. William G. Troy, for several years the minority leader of the Senate and now a candidate for Congress, was a member of the committee that investigated the affairs of the Rhode Island company and is familiar with the book. In his opinion State ownership is the only practicable solution of the State's street railway problems. Here is what he says about it: "Under honest and efficient management the street railways can be operated at a profit and give much better service. To begin with the State could at once save $653,000 which were paid out of gross earnings last year in rentals on $12,700,000 of street railway property "which does not exist and never did exist except in the imagination of those who watered the stock and looted the bond proceeds and then caused the books to disappear."

As the company paid a total of $1,764,000 in rentals, the amount paid as for rentals on real values was $561,000, as the company had a deficit of had a surplus of about $90,000 if it $612,000 it is apparent it would have had not paid out the $653,000 on water. Senator Troy figures the net earnings of last year as $561,000 plus $90,000, or $651,000, an earned six per cent dividened upon a valuation of $10,850,000. Then, as an extraordinary expense for coal of $321,000, the saving of which in normal times would have swelled the earned dividens to $972,000, representing a 8 per cent dividend on $12,300,000 or an eight per cent dividend on a valuation of $12,150,000. Senator Troy places the actual value of the investment between these two amounts.

The senator's plan is to have the General Assembly create a street railway corporation, the capital of which shall be entirely and exclusively owned by the State, which shall have the power to purchase existing street railway systems, at a price determined by a special commission as representing actual value; to build and equip such street railways as may be needed for the proper transportation of the public and to raise the necessary money by a bond issue guaranteed by the State; to place the operating management in the hands of a street railway commission of three, chosen by the General Assembly and representing the public, the holders of bonds and the street railway employes.

The Hon. Stephen J. Casey, member of the Senate and candidate for Congress, favors State ownership of the trolleys. He advises a special session of the General Assembly should be called by Governor Beekman for the purpose of taking immediate steps to take over the Rhode Island Company on terms reasonable to the owner and the State and for the creation of the necessary boards for attending to the business affairs, such as the bond issue and for the physical operation of the system.

PARTY TO MAKE ISSUE.

Francis E. Sullivan, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, is for the State ownership idea personally and declares the party will make an issue of it. Senator Martin M. McLaughlin of Woonsocket, although favors State ownership of the trolleys, as does also Edward M. Sullivan, former Mayor of Scranton.

Richard W. Jennings of Cranston, Republican leader of the House, declares that he is of the opinion that State ownership of the trolleys is the best thing for the people, and at the next session of the Assembly he will have a plan ready to submit to the members. Dr. John M. F. English, Republican leader in the Twenty-fifth Assembly District, will favor State ownership. Representative David J. White of East Greenwich, one of the best-known Republican politicians in the State, has backed the Republican machine and taken a decided stand for State ownership of the trolleys. Realizing that all the influence of the machine will be against him he is going to run on nomination papers and fight on the clear-cut issue of public ownership and make his appeal without regard to party lines.

This man has been three years in the House and for eighteen years was the reading clerk of the Senate. He was one of the close friends and lieutenants of the late General Charles P. Brayton, for many years political dictator of the state. If he had not a kicked over the traces, he could have had another nomination even without the asking. He says this is a time that calls for patriotism rather than party politics and he is going to obey that call. He believes there are many Republicans who feel the same as he does about it.

INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE COLLISION, ASKS $7,000

The C. F. Eddy Company of Newton has been sued for $7,000 by Isaac Turgeon of Newton. Turgeon alleges that on January 11, while driving his automobile on Washington street, Newton, he was severely injured and his car damaged when a coal pung owned by the company collided with his machine.

"Boss" Brayton's Friend for Public Ownership

The Republican leaders are seeing the light of the trolley situation. Says Representative David J. White of East Greenwich, who was a bosom political friend of the late "Boss" Brayton:

"Many other Republicans feel the same as I do about the trolley question—that the only proper solution is State ownership. Just because I have admitted it, I am to be whipped by my own party, but I am going to run on nomination papers and make my appeal to the people on the issue without regard to party."

U. S. BOARD GIVES R. I. CARMEN INCREASE

Providence, Oct. 3.—The public hearing at the State House, now in its third week, during which the plea of street railway men for an increase of almost 100 per cent. in fare, was brought to a sudden halt today by an award of the War Labor Board to the street railway men of a wage of 48 cents an hour.

Further action was then postponed until Monday, in order to give the companies sufficient time to re-adjust their fare schedules to meet the new condition, and allow for the very great great increase of wages that they will have to meet.

It was generally understood by railway men that Director McAdoo is awaiting necessary legislation to takeover the Rhode Island trolleys by the United States government.

In Special meetings have been called for 8 o'clock tonight and 1.30 in the morning, at which John J. Fitzgerald, attorney; James H. Tillinghast, business agent, and Chris Daniels, secretary of the carmen's union will report on conditions.

Hopedale, Oct. 3.—Hopedale, the town with only two manufacturing places, but with many moneyed men, has gone over the top in its Liberty Loan bond drive. Its quota was $1,000,000. The sum already secured is $1,345,000.

GIRLS! ACT NOW! HAIR COMING OUT MEANS DANDRUFF

"Danderine" will save your hair and double its beauty at once.

Try this! Your hair gets soft, wavy, abundant and glossy at once

Save your hair! Beautify it! It is only a matter of using a little Danderine occasionally to have a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, wavy and free from dandruff. It is easy and inexpensive to have pretty, charming hair and lots of it. Just spend a few cents for a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness and beauty, an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you can not find a trace of dandruff or falling hair, but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first —yes—but really new growth coming out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and relief for itching scalp and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this.—Advertisement.

LIBERTY LOAN CELEBRATION FOR DEVENS

Governor Expected to Give Patriotic Address at All-Day Exercises, Oct. 12

By THOMAS F. PHELAN.

Camp Devens, Oct. 3.—Tentative plans for a big Liberty Loan celebration on this sentimental Columbus Day, Oct. 12, were mapped out today by Judge Advocate O'Hara. It is planned to start the exercises in the morning and continue them all day. Governor McCall is expected to deliver a patriotic address. A feature will be the reading of President Wilson's speech on the Fourth Liberty Loan. A concert will be given by the combined military bands.

It is expected that visitors will be permitted to take part in the celebration.

Here is a list of the Liberty Loan officers appointed here to look after the Fourth Liberty Loan work in their respective organizations:

Lieutenants Julius A. Hillman, 58th Infantry; H. G. Stubbs, 49th Infantry; Donald Mertenson, 73d Infantry; Fagrain A. W. Averigg, 74th Infantry; Lieutenants John H. Flynn, 24th Machine Gun Battalion; Lewis Herman, 25th Machine Gun Battalion; Alden E. Miron, 26th Machine Gun Battalion; John O. Walsh, 212th Engineers; Donald F. Foote, 212th Field Signal Battalion; Edward C. Hall, 15th Train Headquarters and Military Police; Paul D. Shaub, Headquarters Troop; John L. Peppers, Hospital Unit; D. T. Swain, 151st Depot Brigade; J. L. White, Cooks and Bakers' School; Captain Richard C. Jacobs, Quartermaster Corps.

CHARGE OF LIBERTY LOAN.

Major O'Hara, Judge advocate, has been placed in charge of the Liberty Loan activities. He is a former Lieutenant-Governor of Illinois.

Thirteen deaths from pneumonia and other causes were reported today at the base hospital. The influenza epidemic is on the wane. There were only fifty-six cases admitted to the hospital today for treatment. There were twenty-eight pneumonia cases reported.

Major General McCain and staff today had fifty or more men, representing the different regiments, appear before the Division Headquarters to be weighted down with packs. It is his intention to select a lighter pack for men for overseas duty. He is inspecting the pack on each man's back and listened to suggestions of battalion, regimental and company commanders as to what type of pack should be used. The weight of the pack set, it is stated, be less than 40 pounds without ammunition.

STATE OFFICER DIES.

Captain William F. Sibley of the 212th Field Signal Battalion, has been granted sick leave for ten days.

Captain Vestal A. Abraham and Captain Leonard S. Wygal have been assigned for medical duty to the 15th Sanitary Train. Lieutenant Archibald S. Stone of the Medical Corps has been assigned for temporary duty to the 26th Infantry.

Ayer, Oct. 3.—Private Noah S. T. Graham of the Base Hospital has reported at the relief hospital in the Soldiers Club, Ayer. State Police Officer Michael F. Sullivan of Revere, who died of pneumonia at his home in Lenominster, will be buried tomorrow. He was ordered to special duty in camp. He leaves a wife and child.

day afternoon to Captain Thomas T. McMahon of the Canadian recruiting office in Boston.

Kelly, who claimed that his intention is to become a citizen of the United States entitled him to the protection of this country, consulted an attorney, who brought a petition in the Supreme Court asking that a writ of habeas corpus issue ordering Captain McMahon to release him.

The petition was presented to Judge Pierce of the Supreme Court late Wednesday afternoon, and he issued an order of notice returnable at 10 o'clock this forenoon. In the interim the Canadian officers consulted the United States Department of Justice at Washington with the result that Kelly was released without further judicial proceedings.

Kelly has not claimed exemption under the draft regulation which is now being enforced, and is registered in class 1-A.

COURT FREES MAN HELD AS DESERTER

John Kelley of Roxbury says he is willing to serve America in the war against Germany, but objects to being impressed into the military or naval service of Great Britain against his will.

Kelly, who was formerly a member of the Canadian army, lodged here in this country several years ago, and in June, 1914, took the initial step toward becoming citizen of the United States.

A few days ago officers of the Canadian Recruiting Station on Bromfield street received instructions from the New York headquarters to arrest Kelly as a deserter from the Canadian army. Kelly was taken into custody by police officers of Division 10 and turned over yesterday afternoon to Captain Thomas T. McMahon of the Canadian recruiting office in Boston.

Soldier Saves Life by Using Helmet as a Shovel

Burlington, Vt., Oct. 3.—"It is only through prompt use of my steel helmet as a shovel and timely assistance from a comrade that saved me from death by suffocation when a German armored mine exploded and buried my company under tons of earth," writes Private Allen Delaney of Co. E, 69th New York Infantry, to his parents in this city.

The affair happened in Flanders on July 31. Many of the company were dead when dug out and many were seriously injured.

RADIO STUDENTS TAKE $111,000 IN BONDS

U. S. Naval Radio School, Cambridge, Oct. 3.—Radio students have subscribed to $111,000 worth of Liberty bonds it was learned at the office of the Radio Liberty Loan Committee today. Of this unit, 95 per cent. of one company have entered their subscriptions.

The drive will be continued with full vigor until the end of the campaign. Loan boosters now have practical set upon double the subscription to the Third Liberty loan.

Bishop Williams delivered an address to Radio students at Institution Hall. Bishop Williams has seen service in France and gave the students an interesting picture of conditions "over there."

Moving picture programs are again on the list of entertainment for the students here.

Limited numbers, only, are permitted to attend, owing to precautions against Spanish influenza. Not more than one-fifth the total number of students were allowed to attend the lectures and moving picture entertainment.

The DOCTOR'S ADVICE

By Dr. Lewis Baker

"Cold" writes: "I have such a very severe cough and cold and have not been able to get anything to help me. It is weakening my system."

Answer: Use the following and your cold and cough will vanish and you will soon be strong again. Get a 2½-oz. bottle of concentrated essence mentho-laxene and take one half to one teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. This can be taken pure or made into a full pint of home-made syrup. Full directions as to use will be found on bottle. This is a mild laxative and will drive the cold from the system.

S. E. asks: "I have tried to cure dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair and baldness with numerous tonics, also but in vain. What do you recommend?"

Answer: I have been recommending plain yellow mixyol for the past seven years and scores of patients have been delighted with the quick, pleasant action of this remedy in stopping itching, falling hair, dandruff, etc. It gives the hair health, lustre and life as nothing else does. Obtain in 4-oz. jars with full directions.

Mabel writes: "Can you please prescribe something which will relieve me of such distressing symptoms of kidney and bladder, as the following: Pains in small of back, sometimes in region of bladder, frequent calls at night but scanty flow with pain, burning and foul odor, puffing of limbs, etc."

Answer: Those seeking relief from kidney and bladder disorders should begin taking bainwort tablets, a very successful formula sold in sealed tubes with full directions.

George asks: "For several months I have not been feeling well. My skin is sallow, my tongue is coated, I have headache, am sleepless, nervous and bothered with chronic constipation. Please help me."

Answer: You need a laxative blood cleansing treatment in the form of three-grain sulphets tablets (not sulphur). Overcome the tendency to constipation and gradually your good health and pure blood will return.

Mrs. L. writes: "I hesitate to ask advice as my case is so unusual. In a word, I am tired and worn out all the time. Rest does not refresh me. I have been married over a year and formerly did not know what it was to be tired or nervous. Sometimes I feel frightened. I fear I will become a nuisance to my husband if this continues."

Answer: Your nervous system has been depleted. You need a tonic invigorating medicine that will aid in supplying more food-energy to your nerves. Take three-grain cadomene tablets regularly for several months.

NOTE: For many years Dr. Baker has been giving free advice and prescriptions to millions of people through the press columns and during that time has helped in relieving illness and distress more than any single individual in the world's history. Thousands have written him expressions of gratitude and confidence similar to the following:

Dr. Lewis Baker, Dear Sir: In reading your good advice to others I have found relief. I enclose stamps, and please send me your "Good Health Book, Health and Beauty," and I thank you for advice to others which so helped me. May your good work go on. You will get better reward than money in helping so many who suffer and often cannot have a doctor as there is no money to pay one. One of your many well-wishers. Sincerely,

WILSON CALLS FOR UNIFORM WAGE SCALES

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 3.—President Wilson, in the near future, will order uniform wages for the different trades in all war industries, it was learned today.

The President's proposed action is said to have been prompted by labor turmoil in the war plants. Differences between the wages of the workers in the different plants have caused extensive movements of labor and discontent among the workers, it is pointed out.

It is expected that the uniform wage scales to be outlined by the President will establish relatively equitable conditions among the industries, and will enable each plant to secure and retain that quota of workers necessary to maintain a proper balance in production.

This movement is in concert with the country's war program which has brought about price fixing of virtually every commodity and a consequent limit to the profits of producers. Heretofore, however, there has been no effect toward a just and fair control of labor.

Within the past week the President has conferred with heads of government departments. At his request, investigations have now been started into the wage conditions of miners, shipyard workers and others coming under the jurisdiction of government departments directly engaged in war work.

Felix Frankfurter, chairman of the War Labor Policies Board, is supervising the program.

The way to help Uncle Sam the most when you subscribe for Liberty Bonds

UNCLE SAM is glad to have the loan of your money in either cash or instalments. If you choose to pay in cash, no one will gainsay you. The need for sums small and large from every man, woman or child in order to float this tremendous loan is far too pressing to cavil at methods. But a moment's thought will convince you that taking money or savings from national or savings banks, or investments, is merely "robbing Peter to pay Paul."

WHAT Uncle Sam really wishes you to do—if you can and will—is to invest in Liberty Bonds your increased savings as you go along. It is a thrilling call to that less theatrical, but none the less necessary heroism which quietly and persistently fights day by day the rising cost of living and puts the products of such self-denial—savings—into partial payments on Liberty Bonds.

TO encourage you to make such payments, not alone out of the funds you have already accumulated, but also from daily savings during the months to come, arrangements have been perfected permitting you a variety of ways to pay. If you find you can make, or prefer to make, as few as five payments, you can go to any national bank or trust company and pay 10 per cent with application; 20 per cent November 21; 20 per cent December 19; 20 per cent January 16, 1919; and 30 per cent with interest adjustments on January 30, 1919.

BUT if you prefer to split the sum for which you subscribe into smaller payments, you can go to any savings bank and subscribe on a weekly payment plan. This means fifty consecutive weekly payments of one dollar on each $50 bond, $2 each on a $100 bond—in fact a payment of one dollar per week on each $50 of principal.

SOME people will prefer one method of payment, others will find the other more convenient or within their power to manage. But each group will be conserving the resources of the government by not drawing on their previously accumulated funds; and will in addition manifest the same spirit of patriotic thrift—the same quiet endurance in the face of daily temptations to spend—which have carried the peoples of Allied Europe triumphantly through loan after loan until the first light of future victory appears over the summits of the mountains of doubt and despair, and the dawn of triumphant world-wide democracy is at hand.

"Yours for the Fourth Liberty Loan"

A Thrilling Story of an American Girl and German Intrigue in This Country

CHAPTER XXIV.—Continued

"IT is true," was the proud reply. "The German Navy has been a long time proving itself. It has done so now. Today every German citizen is the proudest creature breathing. He knew before that his armies were invincible. He knows now that his fleet is destined to make his country the mistress of the seas. England's day is over. Her ships were badly handled and foolishly flung into battle. She has lost many of her finest units. Her navy is today a crippled and maimed force. The German fleet is out in the North Sea, waiting for an enemy who has disappeared."

"It is inconceivable," Pamela gasped.

"I do not ask you to believe my word," Fischer exclaimed, "Look!"

As though the flood gates had been suddenly opened, the stream of patient waiters broke away from the newspaper building below. Like little fire-flies, the motor-bicycles were tearing down the different thoroughfares. Boys like ants, with their burden of news sheets, were running in every direction. Motor-trucks had started on their furious race. Even the distant echoes of their cries came faintly up. Fischer called a messenger and sent him for a paper.

"I do not know what report you will see," he said, "but from whatever source it comes it will confirm my story. The news is too great and sweeping to be contradicted or ignored."

"If it's true," Van Teyl muttered, "you've made a fortune in my office today. It looks like it, too. There was something wrong with Anglo-French bonds your selling for the last hour this afternoon. I couldn't get buyers to listen for a moment."

"Yes, I shall have made a great deal of money," Fischer admitted, "money which I shall value because it comes magnificently, but I hope that this victory may help me to win other things."

His looked fixedly at Pamela, and she moved uneasily in her chair. Almost unconsciously the man himself seemed somehow associated with his cause, to be assuming a larger and more tolerant place in her thoughts. Perhaps there was some measure of greatness about him after all. The strain of waiting for the paper became almost intolerable. At last the boy reappeared. The great black headlines were stretched out before her. She felt the overpowering of Fischer's triumph. Too words were there in solid type and the paper itself was one of the most reliable.

GREAT NAVAL BATTLE IN THE NORTH SEA.

BRITISH ADMIRALTY ADMITS SERIOUS LOSSES.

"QUEEN MARY," "INDEFATIGABLE," AND MANY FINE SHIPS LOST.

Pamela looked up from the sheet.

"It is too wonderful," she whispered, with a note of awe in her tone. "I don't think that any one ever expected this. We all believed in the British Navy."

"There is nothing," Fischer declared, "that England can do which Germany cannot do better."

"And America best of all," Pamela said.

Fischer bowed.

"That is one comparison which will never now be made," he declared, "for from tonight Germany and America will draw nearer together. The bubble of British naval omnipotence is pricked."

"Meanwhile," Van Teyl observed, putting his paper away, "we are neglecting our dinner. Nothing like a good dose of sentimentalism for giving us an appetite."

Fischer was watching his glass being filled with champagne. He seized it by the stem. His eyes for a moment traveled upwards.

"I am an American citizen, "but for the moment I am called back. And so I lift my glass and I drink —I alone, without invitation to you others—to those brave souls who have made of the North Sea a holy battle-ground."

He drained his glass and set it down empty. Pamela watched him as though fascinated. For a single moment she was conscious of a queer sensation of personal pity for some shadowy and absent friend, of something almost like a lump in her throat, a strange instinct of antagonism toward the man by her side so enveloped in heatlhe satisfaction—then she frowned when she realized that she had been thinking of Lutchester; that her first impulse had been one of sympathy for him.

CHAPTER XLVII.—Continued

DURING this interchange of remarks Amos Chapin had stood, his face set, his eyes stern. Now he spoke.

"Of course it's not Lizzie's fault," he said. "She's not the kind of a girl to do a thing like that. But you might have seen to it that she got home earlier."

"Mr. Chapin," Elizabeth began. But John checked her.

"Go on upstairs, please, and let me talk to Mr. Chapin," he said gently, but firmly.

As she did his bidding she heard Amos speak again.

"It's I that want to talk to you, young man," he declared. "There's something that I want to say and I may as well say it at once. Suppose we go in here," leading the way into a small room at the rear of the parlor.

The girl stopped at the head of the stairs and looked back. As she did so Mrs. Chapin paused in the door of the kitchen. Their eyes met, and the matron smiled reassuringly.

"Never mind, dearie," she said, softly. "You get ready for supper and I'll get the supper ready. Pa's just a little cranky, but let the men talk it out between them. That's the best way. It don't concern us." And she went on through the dining-room into the kitchen.

Elizabeth hesitated for a moment, then obeyed Mrs. Chapin's suggestion, going into her own room and closing the door behind her.

CHAPTER XLVIII.

THE room into which Amos Chapin led John Butler was one that the younger man had never entered before.

It was small, containing a table and two chairs. On the table were several agricultural manuals, some old almanacs and some small farming implements—in need of repairs. It was evident that this place was a sort of catch-all for some of Amos' own especial possessions.

At one end of the table lay a pistol. Amos picked it up as if to put it out of sight, but realizing that his companion had seen it, explained its presence.

"I took this in my pocket when I went down to discharge the Pole," he said sullenly. Then, as if aware that he was admitting his own cowardice, "You never can tell what those foreigners will do when they get mad—especially when they have a little drink in them."

"One's fists are usually strong enough to protect one," John returned tersely. "Firearms are not always safe things to have around."

He was thinking of how this man had shot the Pole's dog. There was a suggestion of disapproval in his manner, and the farmer spoke quickly to defend his stand.

"There was no danger of my hurting the fellow. I left the first chamber of the pistol empty anyway. So if he had been abusive and I pointed it at him, it would have scared him and done no harm. Hard drinkers are always cowards."

"Cowardice is not limited to drinkers," Butler asserted. "You said you wished to speak to me, I believe? What about?"

"You seem in a hurry," the farmer sneered.

"I am," Butler replied. "I want to wash and change before supper, and I do not care to keep Mrs. Chapin waiting."

"You've done that long enough already," the farmer accused, his face flushing with rage. "That's what I want to talk to you about. If you're going to stay here you will have to follow the rules of this house and not keep a decent girl out till all hours. You were ready enough to blame Cliff for letting her walk home alone one night. Yet here you keep Lizzie——"

An Angry Man

"Stop!" John Butler's voice rang out so clearly that it reached the ears of Elizabeth in the room upstairs. Appreciating how loudly he had spoken, he lowered his tone and stepped closer to the older man. "We may as well have an understanding, Mr. Chapin. But, first of all, I wish you to leave the name of that young lady out of the discussion."

"You do, eh!" mocked Chapin. "Well, if I haven't got a right to mention one of my relatives and to say what she shall and what she shan't do—it's a pity."

"She is not a relative of yours," John began, but Chapin interrupted him.

"What's the use of splitting hairs?—one of my wife's relatives, then. If you knew what I know"—

It was John's turn to interrupt. "If you knew what I know you would keep your tongue between your teeth!" he exclaimed. "I know that she is not your wife's cousin. I know also that she is Dr. Wade's sister."

Chapin gasped. "So that's it, is it? You knew all the time! It was a put-up job to spy on me!"

"Take care!" Butler warned. "Do not say anything you'll be sorry for. If you do, you'll have not only me to reckon with, but Miss Wade's brother as well."

"I guess Douglas Wade and I can fight our battle out alone," the farmer retorted. "And if I tell him that you are compromising his sister"——

He got no further, for John Butler seized him by both shoulders and held him fast.

"If you were not an elderly man," he was saying between clenched teeth, "I would thrash you as I thrashed your son for his impertinence about Miss Wade. But you are old enough to be my father"—dropping his hands from the shrinking shoulders and controlling his anger. "So all I can do is to advise you to be careful what you say."

As he felt himself released, Amos Chapin's sudden fear waned. And his color rose. What right had this upstart to tell him, the future proprietor of this place, what he should say about Douglas Wade's sister—the girl whom he and his wife had known from her childhood?

HE knew only that he had delivered a note to Dr. Kemp at the urgent orders of Mrs. Brooks. The editor being out he had left the envelope with the doctor's secretary.

"You will tell Mrs. Ames," said Blair to the butler, "that her husband and I have been called to the State Department. We should be back soon." The butler bowed and went out. The older man turned to his nephew.

Bob Ames halted him. "What was in that note—was my paper in it? Why should Mrs. Brooks be sending a special messenger to Dr. Kemp?"

"Didn't you tell me she contributed to The Graphic?"

"But she wouldn't send social gossip to a paper on the wedding day of her daughter."

"Wait a minute, Bob, you're apparently right, but fundamentally wrong. I'd stake my life Elaine is as innocent as you are. Come along, we'll call on our friend Dr. Kemp. But first get that look out of your eyes. And by the way, I'll telephone—just a moment!"

Secret Service Men Aid

As a result of this telephone call two Secret Service men met Mr. Blair and his nephew as they alighted in front of the Graphic office.

"Don't forget," Blair cautioned, "you're dealing with a fox. Be casual. You'd like to get that envelope back because you're not willing that Mrs. Brooks should be contributing social gossip to a paper any longer. Am I clear? Good."

Dr. Kemp had been seated at his desk only a few moments when his secretary brought in Mr. Blair's card.

"Mr. George Blair of the Department of Justice? Why, certainly, show him in." In the eyes of the editor was a lurking spark of fear. He lit a cigarette to steady his nerves and received his caller with apparent cordiality.

"My nephew, Mr. Ames," said Blair, "as you know, he has had the good fortune to marry a very charming girl, and he has a very natural request to make."

Dr. Kemp bowed; there was no danger after all. To the discerning eye of Mr. Blair his relief was apparent.

"Dr. Kemp," said Ames, "my wife informed me some time ago that Mrs. Brooks was a contributor to your paper. Now that her daughter has become Mrs. Ames all three of us feel that the reason that led to the arrangement no longer exists. Mrs. Brooks sent you, I believe, some notes today. Would you give them back?"

"My dear Mr. Ames," said Kemp, "I have but just come in. No doubt they are here. Let us look." And he went over his collection of mail. "Ah, here we are—permit me." He handed the envelope to the young man.

"I am, of course, a loser by your decision, but I appreciate your feeling. Please thank Mrs. Brooks for me."

Paper Is in Envelope

He rose and opened the door for Blair and his nephew. The three men descended to the street in silence. When they had turned the corner Ames tore open the envelope.

With a suffocating feeling he took out the precious paper, assured himself it was intact, and then, with a shrinking he could scarcely control, raised the letter to his eyes.

"Ready," said Mr. Blair.

"Read that," cried his nephew. "Her writing—my God!—and signed with her married name."

"And the envelope."

"Addressed by Mrs. Brooks. They're working together." His distress was so real that his uncle spoke with unnecessary harshness.

"Man alive! Careful! Don't say anything you'll be sorry for."

"Sorry for? The enclosed she refers to is the missing document. Elaine wrote the note, her mother addresses it. It is too precious to be sent by mail, so the butler, the old, trusted family servant, takes it in person."

"Wait a minute, Bob. Don't lose your faith."

"But I tell you she had the key. There's the paper. There's her handwriting.

Physicians Recommend Castoria

YOU know the real human doctors right around in your neighborhood: the doctors made of flesh and blood just like you: the doctors with souls and hearts: those men who are responding to your call in the dead of night as readily as in the broad daylight; they are ready to tell you the good that Fletcher's Castoria has done, is doing and will do, from their experience and their love for children.

Fletcher's Castoria is nothing new. We are not asking you to try an experiment. We just want to impress upon you the importance of buying Fletcher's.

Your physician will tell you this, as he knows there are a number of imitations on the market, and he is particularly interested in the welfare of your baby.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ills., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory."

Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. J. H. Tart, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr. Wm. F. McCraun, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."

BASEBALL IN '19 NOT POSSIBLE

Long Period of Preparation Is Necessary Prior to Opening of Season

New York, Oct. 3.—Officially major league baseball so far as the National League is concerned, will be terminated at the annual meeting to be held in this city on December 10.

At that gathering the officers of the senior organization will formally wind up the business of the season just ended and will not resume activities until the close of the war warrants plans for the resumption of operations.

According to the opinion of prominent magnates, a declaration of peace coming late next Spring would prove of little value to the big league clubs.

It needs a long period of preparation, and much detail work prior to the opening of a pennant race, and it is generally recognized that in the present unsettled condition of baseball affairs it would be practically impossible to renew the complex operation of the circuit without ample time in which to complete all the arrangements.

Some of the baseball parks have been adapted to other purposes, players of the various teams have been scattered throughout this country and abroad. But these are only a few of the great difficulties that would confront plans to resurrect the game quickly.

General opinion in influential quarters inclines to the belief that a new and better brand of professional baseball will be evolved at the proper time, but it is said that much of this advantage will be sacrificed if the big leagues rushed blindly back to the game at the first hint of an opening.

MACHINE GUNNERS OPEN FOR FOOTBALL TROUBLE

One of the best football teams at Camp Devens is going to be a game and uniforms and other perquisites. The members of Company B, 35th Machine Gun Battalion eleven, admit they have plenty of class. They want to tackle the best semi-pro and college outfits in New England.

They need footballs and suits and everything, but are confident that some patriotic friends will come through with the same, now that they know about it.

The army team has a flock of former Dorchester and Neponset heroes as well as a sprinkling of college stars.

Corporal Edward Riley, B Company, 35th Machine Gun Battalion, Camp Devens, Ayer, is the manager of the team. He is anxious for action.

WAR DEPARTMENT RULE TO STOP BIG GRID GAMES

The War Department rule barring football teams from overnight travel owing for games scheduled in October will raise havoc with some of the contests scheduled.

Probably the most important meeting that will be interfered with is the Pennsylvania-Harvard game scheduled for October 26. That cannot possibly be played if the order is enforced.

Other games that will be under the ban are the Notre Dame-Michigan and Pittsburgh-West Virginia contests Saturday. The Syracuse-Pittsburgh and West Point-West Virginia games October 19 and the Syracuse-Dartmouth and Notre Dame-Washington and Jefferson October 26 will also have to be abandoned.

DYER TO MAKE LEWIS REAL GLOVE STAR

By ED W. SMITH.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Many will insist that it simply cannot be done, but Fred Dyer, boxing instructor at Camp Grant, is going to try to put the same. He is going to make an effort to turn Ed Lewis, the Kentucky strangler and one of the greatest heavyweight wrestlers, into a glove fighter.

"Never on earth," the critics will murmur, because every other attempt of this character has turned out to be a fizzle.

Lewis is now at Camp Grant, a member of the 11th Battery, Depot Brigade, and comes directly under the practiced eye of Dyer, who is giving all of the boys at the camp boxing lessons.

It isn't often that Dyer comes across an athlete of the prominence of Lewis, and naturally he was impressed with the man's heroic proportions.

Lewis weighs 220 pounds and is as fine a specimen a could be found anywhere in the world.

TRAINER HAS HOPES.

"It's my intention to make a great fighter out of him," Dyer declares.

"Yes, I know all about the different failures that have followed moves of this kind, but that isn't going to discourage me in the least. As long as Lewis is with me in the matter I am going ahead.

"First of all we will try to make a good soldier out of him. He is that now, but we will have a finish all-around training will be to teach him a good idea of the boxing game. Then we will have a real champion."

Reminded that Frank Gotch, Dr. F. E. Hoff and several other famous wrestlers tried the boxing game without any success, Dyer continued smiling and would be convinced. "This man is different," he kept saying.

GOTCH WAS FAILURE.

Gotch tried fighting in the Klondike and was a complete failure. He met the famous old Frank Slavin long after the Australian star had passed his prime and Gotch was a young, tough, Virginia bull.

But Slavin simply kidded Frank along for a couple of rounds and then could step in connecting his right and then the other with well directed punches. Gotch used to kid himself about this fight in his monologue, saying: "Mr. Slavin and I boxed three rounds and during that time he got me for his acts 880 times. And, believe me, my friends, what I say is the truth. He never missed me once."

"Lewis isn't so good on his feet as yet," Dyer said, "but he is willing and anxious to learn. He can be corrected in this vanity. He has a good idea of boxing, and we have been forming any bad habits will be easy to guide in the right line. He is a trifle bound up around those big shoulders of his, but this I can overcome, too.

"There's one thing I couldn't teach him, and I told him about it the first thing. I can't teach him to be game, but he just laughed at me for this. He ahead of any of the boys I've had, and I'll supply the gameness. I've taken a lot of it in my time."

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN OCTOBER 3, 1918. BOSTON.

Good Wishes Go With Brush

The AMERICAN is glad to learn that Matthew Brush assumes duties commensurate with his ability and energy when he leaves the presidency of the Boston Elevated Street Railway. Mr. Brush, of course, does not leave the Elevated because any one wanted him to leave. He never had even a sporting chance in the management of that public utility, and its breakdown under private management cannot at all be attributed to him. In his new duties he will find scope for all his capacities and for his imagination as well.

We wish him every success that should go to a man of his attractive qualities, of which courtesy is not the least.

Protection for All

The appointment of George W. Anderson to the vacancy in the United States Circuit Court for this district will please every forward-looking man in New England.

It will mean that in Mr. Anderson's court the law will be ably and impartially administered, and that the friendless and powerless will be protected as firmly as the strong. It will mean that in Mr. Anderson's court there will be an end of attempts to use the judicial power to import old-fashioned prejudices, social and economic, into our laws.

How pleasing it must be to those who are touched with the spirit of public service, and who do not select their political parties or change from election to election according to temporary views of personal advantage, to observe that, after all, fortune is not always blind to the good deeds of those who dare to strike for justice without first thinking how it is going to affect themselves!

Let the young men about to select their political affiliations look over the list of the men who have risen in the last ten years in this State and throughout the country. We venture to say that, if they are intelligent, they will conclude that honesty expressed in courageous, distinterested public service is after all the very best policy for the ambitious as well as for the patriotic.

Fight Against Epidemic

The AMERICAN is glad to observe that the public health authorities are taking vigorous and courageous control of this terrible epidemic, and that the other public authorities are heeding the advice of their medical experts. It is high time. This is the worst scourge we have had in years. It is extremely contagious, and the danger comes in the congregation of the people. Schools ought not to be opened until WE ARE ABSOLUTELY SURE that the danger is past. To open the schools and then have the epidemic break out in the schools, and after that to close them, is like locking the stable door after the horse has been stolen. This applies also to the churches, to the theatres and to every other public gathering.

The AMERICAN is glad to note that the advice of those physicians who were advocating permitting the schools to stay open on the theory that "the children could be better observed" is now quite repudiated by the health authorities. Indeed it is remarkable that the theory could ever have obtained vogue among intelligent laymen, not to say experts. The idea that a physician, or a million of them, could stand in a schoolroom and clap a cloth over a child about to sneeze or cough, or destroy the "bug" on the wing from the mouth of the cougher or sneezer to the mouth or nostrils of a schoolmate with some kind of an antiseptic, is quite ludicrous. It appears to us that the families to which the school children belong ought to be much more effectively quarantined from this epidemic.

Senator Weeks and Equal Suffrage

Mr. Ralph S. Bauer of Lynn, a member of the Constitutional Convention and one of the most active and influential Republicans in Essex County, sent yesterday to Senator Weeks the following telegram:

Hon. John W. Weeks,
United States Senate,
Washington, D. C.

Protesting your vote against equal rights for all human beings at a time when the whole world is aflame fighting for greater liberties and real democracy, and the women of the world are carrying the greater share of the burden and sacrifice to the end that true democracy may live, I send this telegram.

Ever since I have been old enough to vote, I have always—without a single exception—voted for Republican candidates for Federal offices. Next November I will leave the space on the ballot opposite your name absolutely blank, as an individual protest against your action in the Senate yesterday, and I believe there are ten thousand other Republican voters in this State who will elect to handle their ballot the same way. You have absolutely failed to understand the signs of the present day in denying equal rights to the American Women—the greatest force for progress in this whole world.

Lynn, Mass., October 2d, 1918.

This is well as far as it goes, but it only goes half far enough. It is high time that intelligent and patriotic citizens like Mr. Bauer should realize that allegiance to country is infinitely more binding than allegiance to party in cases where they believe the national welfare to be at stake, and that in such cases it is their patriotic duty not merely to refrain from voting for candidates whose policies they consider harmful, but to vote for candidates, if such are in the field, who will, if elected, forward the principles in which the voter believes.

Many Republicans will doubtless follow Mr. Bauer's example, but thousands more will vote for David I. Walsh, whose election to the Senate will not only strengthen the cause of equal suffrage, but will promote all the other progressive ideals that Senator Weeks and the small but powerful coterie of special interests that placed him in the Senate so obdurately and selfishly oppose.

Poetess Writes From France of Soldiers' Letters and Gives Authors at Home Good Advice

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1918, by Star Company.

Somewhere in France.

LET me suggest one thing to you, mothers, wives, sweethearts and friends of the men over here. Do not always write to them, or of them, as if they were in the trenches, facing the German guns, or constantly going "over the top."

You may picture them mentally in these situations, if it is so pleasing to your pride; but if you write to them in this strain, or send them newspaper clippings wherein you have given some reporter this impression, without having had authority from France, you are causing your soldier more pain than pleasure. I was told some months ago that it required five men in the rear and in the service of supplies to keep one man at the front. I am now told that it requires eight! To feed, to prepare transportation, to repair clothes and vehicles, to attend to records, to build new lines of railroads, and to interpret languages in this vast army composed of various nationalities, to man the hospitals in the rear and supply the needs of its hundreds of patients—these are a few of the many occupations which keep such vast numbers of enlisted men and officers away from the "front," and out of the trenches. They are just as important to the cause as are the fighting men.

A Daily Longing

No man could reach the enemy, no man could fight, were it not for these other men in the rear working for him. Every one of these men is eager to go to the front. Each one longs for the hour when he believes it will be his turn to go. But the men who have charge of this vast machinery of war realize the importance of keeping good and efficient specialists in each position in the rear. The salvage plant is an enormous business and it saves America and France millions of dollars by its wonderful system of renovating everything worn or discarded on the battlefields, and sending back clothing, harness and equipment of all kinds, as good as new. Five thousand French women are employed in this work, and hundreds of intellectual American men—officers and soldiers. Each department must have its specialist. There are directors and managers in the salvage plant who were men of wealth, occupying high places in the business world before they came here. One man knew all about harness and saddles, another about boots and shoes—another was expert in the woolen business, another in making uniforms. One has the great steam laundry to manage, and so on into the almost countless departments. All these men must be fed, as well as all the troops passing through the town. The railroads must be carefully watched and kept in perfect condition. Not one of these thousands of men in this place is in sound of the guns, or in any danger.

A Painful Hour

He would like to be, but he has to do the work for which he is better fitted than some other man. When he receives a letter from home speaking with great sympathy of his dangerous life in the trenches he is chagrined and unhappy. A handsome young captain who has charge of an important commissary department told me with almost tears in his eyes how he was humiliated by having his sister send him a clipping of an item she had caused to be written regarding her courageous brother "at the front." He had never told her he was at the front—the boys in the rear are rather non-committal about their doings waiting for the day when they may go and fight. But they feel embarrassed to be represented in a false light. These men need cheering, happy and loving letters from home even more than do the fighting men at the front. They have lonelier and duller hours. Write them in a way to make them feel you are proud of them, no matter what are their duties.

LITTLE GIRL LEARNS THE MEANING OF BONDS

By Robert S. Weeks

Liberty Loan Committee of New England.

IT happened during the second Liberty Loan campaign, or to be exact, in October, 1917.

A father who had been in the investment bond business for years and was active in selling Liberty Bonds, had the fact brought home to him again and again during the campaign that surprisingly few people in the United States really know what a bond is, what constitutes a safe investment and how to purchase bonds.

Men who were successful in business and had saved money, admitted that they knew very little about how to correctly invest their savings so as to make this money earn as much more money as possible and yet keep the principal amount of money safe.

Women who could at a glance, or by feeling, tell in a moment the difference between a good piece of dress goods and a poor one, even to the extent of getting a real bargain at a bargain sale, and who, with full assurance and good buying ability, could purchase all things necessary to their housekeeping duties, were absolutely lost upon entering a bank or bond dealer's office and did not know the first thing as to how to conserve and make grow whatever amount of money they might have.

Should Be Taught

The father thought a great deal about this and came to the conclusion that at least one reason for it was that children as they grew up were not instructed regarding simple investment truths as they might, yes, should be.

It so happened that this father had a daughter ten years old and the Liberty Bonds, then being sold, gave him the opportunity to try to instruct and bring up at least one woman who would know how to conduct herself in the purchase of safe bonds, and not be afraid to go to a bank or bond dealer to transact the business.

He put this plan into effect by taking his daughter to the savings bank in the town where they lived and had her sign, herself, for the purchase of a $50 Liberty Bond on the $1 a week plan. Then he explained to her, in simple language, just what a bond is, telling her that it is not a thing to be afraid of but rather one to be proud of, to strive for and to keep; that it represented money loaned to make possible a constructive work and that whoever borrowed her money represented by the bond, paid her money for the use of it; and that the money paid her for the use of her money was called interest; and that she got it by cutting off every six months little slips of paper, like tickets, and called coupons, which he showed her were attached to the bond.

So that the lesson would not be one of the moment but would be a continuing one, he told her that for one year, or, to be exact, fifty weeks, it was to be her duty to ask him every Saturday morning for $1 and to go to the savings bank alone, take her card with her and make the payment of $1; make sure that the card was punched, and be able to tell him any time just how much she had paid on this bond.

Helping Country

To be sure, he had the advantage of being able to tell her that by doing this she was helping her country and backing up our soldiers and sailors who were fighting to make her home safe; but he took advantage of this opportunity, an opportunity open to every mother and father in this land with children between, say, the ages of ten and twenty.

Liberty Bonds because of their patriotic appeal, small denomination, and the instalment plan of purchasing, furnish the opportunity, and Liberty Bonds are the supreme bond investment.

AMERICA'S FIRST EVE HAD FASHION SHOP

America's first woman—a true Eve—was a woman of feminine frivolities and fashion, as was proved the other day when California's tar pits yielded up her skeleton. The ancient animal traps of Rancho La Brea were found then to have been storage warehouses and fashion shops of our earliest countrymen and women—and many interesting new lights were thrown upon their habits and customs. Just One Safe Investment.
"Brite and Fair."
No Suffrage Defeat Possible.

The bigger the bond issue the greater the value of the government bond as compared with other property.

For every bond issued by the government is a first mortgage on everything in the United States, real property, personal property, the income, inheritance—everything.

There are thousands of good investments in the United States, but there is only one absolutely safe investment—the United States government bond.

The bigger the bond issue the bigger is the mortgage on the United States and the greater property value of the bond is compared with everything else subject to the national first mortgage—the Liberty bond.

The woman suffrage amendment is defeated in the Senate. Nevertheless, woman suffrage is victorious and will be a fact in this country with the ending of the war.

The States that grant suffrage to women are of course entitled to and will get increased representation in Congress in proportion to the number of women voters, just as the Southern States properly receive additional congressional representation because of the colored voters.

Millions of women voting will demand and will have representation in Congress. And where women do not vote now, even without any constitutional amendment, the States will decide before long that they do not want to weaken themselves in the Congress of the United States by keeping their women in political slavery while the women of other States are politically free and represented in the United States Congress.

The woman suffrage cause cannot possibly lose, because it is based on justice.

The little boy compelled to keep a diary wrote every day only the words "Brite and Fair."

The war news can be described from day to day as the little boy described the weather; all the reports are "Brite and Fair."

Bonar Law sends out the pleasant suggestion that Turkey will soon abandon Prussia and make the best peace bargain she can, following Bulgaria.

Revolt is expected in Rumania and the Ukraine, territories that were to feed the Prussians and that have to feed the Prussians.

The Germans are burning Cambrai on the west front, and are in a rebellious, ugly mood at home in Berlin.

The Bolshevik maniacs have arranged for the burning of Moscow in case they are driven out. They realize that they selected the wrong town when they leaned on the Kaiser.

The people of Berlin, cheering the Bulgaria legation, express the approval of peace and have been fighting with the police.

And finally, another and more desperate effort is expected in the way of peace suggestion from Austria.

Everything moves along well, nothing to complain of, therefore we have time to observe some of the minor facts that present themselves.

Have you observed, in and out of war, the important part that the nose seems to play in deciding a man's power?

Napoleon Bonaparte—a long nose.

Foch, the Frenchman controlling every soldier fighting on the side of justice—a long nose.

Woodrow Wilson, supplying the men, money and energy from this country, and disposing of an Austrian peace note in thirty seconds—a long nose.

How does it happen that men really successful and efficient in the highest degree seem, not always, but nearly always, to combine light blue or gray eyes with a long nose?

Socrates was an exception, according to the sculptor, but something happened to his nose—it may have been long originally.

The man with the short, snubby nose is a good individual fighter. He has all the physical courage of his snub-nosed cousin, the bulldog.

But if you want a THINKING fighter you must select him with a long nose.

That kind of nose, plus a powerful jaw and a well developed back head, such as Napoleon had, makes a combination difficult to beat.

Even in the prize ring the difference in noses counts.

Experts will tell you that the most remarkable fighters at this time are young Jews, often fighting under Irish names for business reasons, and that these Jewish athletes win their fights because they think while they are fighting. They have also long noses.

A wise man has said that thinking actually adds to the length of the nose and the development of the chin, in the individual as well as in the race. There is no doubt that in ancient people, thinking for centuries, a long nose indicates the educated man. Dante had one of the longest noses.
